Congress Lining Up For Battle On Foreign Aid Issue

House Facing Toughest Fight On Foreign Aid

Further Efforts To Reduce Size Of Fund Expected

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(INS)—The toughest fight over foreign aid since before Pearl Harbor starts in the House today over the two and one-third billion dollar omnibus bill which includes the European recovery program.

Former House Speaker Martin (R) Mass., said it is "going to be a hard fight and anything can happen."

He declared that this is the first time since the launching of the Marshall program that "we didn't pretty well know in advance what would happen on this."

Martin disclosed that House Republicans have taken no position on the bill.

Will Concentrate On

Administration Democrats will concentrate their offensive on:

1. Efforts to wipe out the one billion dollar cut made in ERP by the House Foreign Affairs Committee. The bill now provides $1,950,000,000 in new cash for the third year of ERP. It also permits use of $150,000,000 saved out of this year's Marshall program.

2. Defeat of a $500,000,000 further cut in ERP due to be proposed on the floor.

3. Retention of a section which launches President Truman's disputed "point four" program with an initial authorization of $450,000,000. Mr. Truman repeatedly has asked for approval of the "bold new" project for sharing knowledge with underdeveloped areas. House leaders said this will be a tough-and-go fight.

First Bill Voted

The one billion dollar cut in ERP funds by the Foreign Affairs Committee is the first ever voted by the unit. Three GOP committeemen—Reps. Vorys, Ohio; Judd, Minn., and Bolton, Ohio—said the cut may well save the Marshall program from defeat in the House.

The slash amendment, sponsored by Vorys, would make one billion dollars in surplus funds available to recipient countries.

The powerful House farm bloc will press for a compromise amendment. It would restore the one billion dollars but specify the money be spent to buy foods declared surplus by agriculture Secretary Brannan.

An interested citizen writes Pa. News stating that the courtesy chute erected at the post office for motorists is a splendid idea. Non-thinking motorists park near it and those desiring to make use of the chute are denied this privilege. The box should be moved nearer the corner or parking rules enforced, it is suggested. The informant also suggests no parking at all on East Street between North Street and East Washington Street.

For the first time this winter, the state highway department had pieces of equipment on county highways Thursday. It was reported to Pa. News by A. A. Martin, county superintendent. The department moved off several inches of slush from the highways before it froze and became a hazard to motorists using the roads.

Two weeks from today, which is Good Friday, will be quite generally observed throughout the city. Many churches are planning the traditional three-hour services. Several union meetings are planned by the various ministers of the city during the day. The following Sunday, Easter Sunday will be (Continued on Page Two)

Challenges Probers To Allow Him To Question 'Top Spy'

By WILLIAM THEIS (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Sen. McCarthy (R) Wis., challenged Senate investigators today to let him question under oath the man he says is the nation's top Russian spy "connected" with the State department.

McCarthy tangled with the State department and Sen. Tydings (D) Md., chairman of the loyalty investigating group, on the issue of whether the accused man has been closely associated with the department.

Await Truman Decision

Their exchange developed while both sides awaited a presidential decision from Key West, Fla., on releasing government loyalty files required for the inquiry. Tydings said the investigation could not proceed until this is settled.

Tyding's description of the accused man's activities coincided with one given for the inquiry. Tydings said the investigation could not proceed until this is settled.

Gen. Eisenhower Believes U.S. Too Much Disarmed

NEW YORK, March 24.—(INS)—

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said last night that the United States had disarmed "beyond the extent that I—with deep concern for her present safety—could possibly advise."

The general of the army added: "Until war is eliminated from international relations, unpreparedness for it is well night as criminal as war itself."

The president of Columbia University and wartime Allied supreme commander also outlined a three-point program for enduring peace—international disarmament, a United Nations police force, and international cooperation to promote justice, freedom and economic opportunity "for all men of good will."

Can Be Achieved

Acheson Now Drafting New Policy On Asia

New U.S. Program To Halt Communism In Southeast Asia

By JOHN REICHMANN (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Secretary of State Acheson is drafting a new United States policy today to halt Communism in southeast Asia.

The plan will be presented to the Senate and House Foreign Affairs Committees Monday by Ambassador-at-large Philip C. Jessup. Jessup has just returned from a fact-finding tour of the area.

No Great Overall Plan

Administration sources emphasize, however, that no great overall plan such as the European recovery program or a Pacific alliance will be proposed.

Instead, they said, Acheson is expected to set forth the things that can be done specifically for each of the threatened countries. Jessup is known to have returned from his trip with these conclusions:

1. All observers in the area view the situation as extremely critical.

Pact Undesirable

2. Almost every government feels that a Pacific pact paralleling the North Atlantic pact is undesirable. One leader thought it might be advisable for the Prime ministers of the nations involved to hold periodical meetings.

3. It is the consensus among these nations that the Chinese Communists will not make any overt all out frontal attack on any adjoining areas, with the possible exception of a disputed part of the border with Burma.

4. The closely knit colonies of Chinese, including prosperous businessmen, constitute a continuing problem since they have strong ties with the homeland. Some have been threatened with danger to their families in China if they do not support the Communist cause.

5. British recognition of the Peking regime, without the U. S. along, has caused some apprehension that there is a split between the two western powers.

Half Million Belgians Strike

Protest Return Of King Leopold III

BRUSSELS, March 24.—(INS)—Five hundred thousand Belgian workers struck today in protest against the possible return of King Leopold III. They paralyzed much of the economic life in the Brussels and Wallonia regions.

The walkout, called for a period of 24 hours, tied up business in Brussels, Mons, Charleroi and La-Louviere.

Brussels was left without local transport facilities, but railroad trains leaving the city functioned normally.

The strike was staged coincident with a call to Prince Regent Charles from the Social Christian party to designate a "temporary premier" who will form a Belgian government.

The temporary regime would be charged specifically with deciding whether King Leopold III is qualified to resume the throne.

in the State department if he is proved wrong on his "espionage" case. He said he would "stand or fall" on it, adding:

"If they bring this man before the committee and I have a chance to examine him he'll either indict himself or preclude himself."

Employment Record
Tydings said the State department gave him the "employment record" of the individual accused by McCarthy of being the "top Russian, espionage agent in this country," and that it showed the following:

1. About five years ago for a period of four months, he was "associated with a mission outside of the United States."

2. Later "on a single day," although not employed or compensated by the department, he "publicly addressed a group of State department employees."

3. On another occasion, though not employed, he participated in a two-day "citizens' round table conference in the company of many distinguished Americans who likewise were participating in this discussion."

Knows It Is True
McCarthy insisted that "until a few weeks ago this man had a desk in the State department and free access to its files," McCarthy added.

"The chairman knows it is untrue because he has in his possession a sworn statement from another State department official that this man was a consultant of the department in Far Eastern affairs at least until several months ago. He was one of their top advisers until two or three weeks ago."

Eisenhower said that a peace without justice, freedom and opportunity would be an empty one, adding:

"Far better to risk a war of possible annihilation that grasp a peace which would be the certain extinction of free man's ideas and ideals."

In an obvious reference to proposals for talks between President Truman and Premier Stalin, Eisenhower dismissed as wishful thinking any expectation that peace could be gained through "a single high level conference."

"I think I can say there is considerable sentiment for a 70-group air force."

Chavez said no time had been set for Eisenhower's appearance but he assumed it would be at the convenience of the Columbia University president.

TURNPIKE SAFETY RECORD

It is hard to escape the conclusion that the 70-mile-an-hour speed limit set for the Pennsylvania Turnpike is a dominant factor in the poor safety record being compiled by the superhighway.

In spite of the fact that the most modern safety engineering was employed in the construction of the Turnpike—39 persons met death there in 1949 and the fatality rate per hundred million miles was computed at 10.0, as compared to the 5.8 rate of the State's other highways.

This record becomes more disturbing when it is recalled that pedestrians are not permitted on the Turnpike and that the victims are, almost without exception, drivers or occupants of vehicles. It should be noted, too, that 68 percent of the fatal accidents happened during the hours of daylight.

Pennsylvanians are justly proud of their pride to a safety record that becomes progressively worse, the fatality rate having risen from 5.8 in 1947 to 7.3 in 1948 and then to 10.0 in 1949. Unless the Turnpike Commissioners can show that other factors are responsible they will have no alternative to reducing the speed limit.

CARIBBEAN CONSPIRACIES

It was on the island of Hispaniola that Christopher Columbus in 1492 first set foot in the New World. It was on the same island in 1804 that Haiti became the world's first Negro republic. And now, in 1950, Haiti has become the first nation to invoke the Rio Treaty.

Two months ago the Haitian government charged that the Dominican Republic, which occupies nearly two-thirds of the island, was conspiring to overthrow Haiti. Dominican President Trujillo retorted by accusing Haiti, Cuba and Guatemala of similar activities against his regime.

No punches are pulled in the report of the inter-American fact-finding committee after two months' investigation of these charges. Cuba, Guatemala and the Dominican Republic are found guilty as charged. Haiti is found not guilty. The three culprits are ordered to mend their ways or have the teeth of the Rio Treaty—diplomatic, economic or military sanctions—used on them by the other 18 American republics.

Specifically, the Dominican Republic is asked to cease tolerating or fomenting subversive activities in Haiti. And Cuba and Guatemala are told to stop helping the Caribbean Legion, that foreign legion of Latin adventurers quartered in Guatemala, in its plots to overthrow Trujillo.

This document will not become official until it is endorsed by the full Council of the Organization of the American States. Despite sharp racial differences, the Caribbean nations have enough in common to unite them if the regional federation is strong enough to keep the freebooters in their governments within bounds.

PACIFIC SHIPWRECK

A naval investigation will no doubt throw light on some of the curious circumstances surrounding the explosion and fire that crippled the Navy net tender Elder in the Pacific. It is reported an engine room blast knocked the vessel out of commission and also wrecked the power plant used to operate her communications gear.

Deprived of a means to get word of her condition to naval headquarters at Pearl Harbor, she was a drifting hulk.

Fortunately, the failure of the little ship to meet her ETA (estimated time of arrival) at Eniwetok set the Navy's highly organized search and rescue machinery in motion within a short time. Even so, one group of survivors had been drifting a week before it was sighted by patrol planes.

But the most inexplicable part of the proceedings was the failure of an Army transport to heed frantic distress signals from the skipper and skeleton crew that stuck with the ship.

All the survivors were picked up in good shape. The badly damaged ship was saved, which is a feather in the cap of the junior officer commanding it. But there are lessons to ponder. The Navy will make an exhaustive search for the cause of the trouble.

Meanwhile, the stark fact is that despite tremendous technological advances that obviate the dangers of getting a ship from one point to another, ill fortune at times can still make a vessel as vulnerable as if the disaster had occurred a century ago.

GOING DOWN

Although Europe is not yet out of the economic woods—when, in recent decades, was it in the clear?—its position has improved to such an extent that the need for direct American aid is dropping steadily and Belgium, for one country, is rapidly approaching the day when no more help of any kind will be necessary. One heartening report comes from the Department of Commerce at Washington, another from Belgium's director of foreign trade, who is now on a visit to the United States.

According to the Department of Commerce the outlay for direct aid during the last two quarters of 1949 was roughly $800,000,000 less than for the first two quarters. Even so, the total for the year was a staggering $4,834,000,000. But it is encouraging that the situation is no longer so critical as to require $100,000,000 a week in American taxpayers' money.

Red Fomented Strikes In Italy

The Italian government headed by Premier Alcide De Gasperi is still in control—its position apparently not greatly weakened by a Communist general strike which clearly was Moscow's bid for new chaos and confusion in western Europe.

France promises to be the major battleground of ideological struggle and labor clashes this spring and summer.

But the big strike movement in Italy was of first-line importance. The Communists can strike at France's economy and politics by sit-down strikes and sabotage.

More International
The blows intended for Italy, however, are far more international in nature. The country is number one on the list of those that communism must unsettle if the "cold war" is to be won by the east.

United States material and moral commitments in Italy are heavy. In addition, the Kremlin squarely faces the Roman Catholic church in the struggle.

A victory for communism in Italy would be a tremendous achievement for Moscow. Not only would it be a blow to church prestige and the whole pattern of American aid to Europe but it would be dangerous in the extreme for Marshal Tito's Yugoslavia.

It would place hostile Communist elements on both sides of him and create a situation that could be exploited in the fullest by the Kremlin.

Did Some Damage
There is no doubt that the general strike, while failing to cripple Italy, did a great deal of damage.

The country's economy is precarious and De Gasperi is digging deep into reserves to carry out his campaign of land reform.

This involves the very delicate task of cutting down the size of some of Italy's vast feudal estates and giving the landless peasantry what they can work for their own subsistence and prosperity of the country.

In this respect, De Gasperi must tread a cautious path.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

HELP CHILD FEEL EMOTIONALLY SECURE

Assuming that the child has parents who themselves strive to be honest and truthful, the surest way for him to become so is to grow up in a family where he feels he is loved and wanted, feels he is emotionally secure. The first essential to this end is that his parents shall feel emotionally secure toward each other, that they shall truly love each other. Emotional insecurity, doubts, suspicions of deceit by one parent toward another can't be wholly hidden even from the tiny infant.

The child is born with the urge to take and use anything he can get his hands on. Slowly he must learn to respect the rights and possessions of others. He needs to learn early the meaning of "no." If he learns this from parents who are consistent with themselves and with each other he may have very few temptations to deceive. But the child, because of the human frailties of his parents, discovers very early that he can have some things and do some things (other wise forbidden) when his mother is watching, that moreover, he escape being found out by deceiving with words, by lying. Also he may grow more inclined to try to deceive the person toward whom he does not feel esteem and affection.

Begin At Home
Lying and stealing practically always begin at home and they usually go together. Basically they are one and the same—deceit.

Suppose your child lies to you. Of course, as all of us parents are humanly frail, we should expect some deceit in our children. We can first rule out the cases of wild imagination "lying," which is really not lying but confusion of fact and fantasy. Nearly all such cases arise because the parent lacks understanding and imagination and accuses the child of lying when he supposed he had never been nearer the truth.

But suppose your child has been stealing things and lying to cover up his tracks. Don't put him on trial then with the purpose to convict and punish him. If you see your child taking things he knows are not his or catch him in the act of stealing (which you rarely will) immediate punishment might be effective.

Objective Evidence
But if you have the objective evidence beyond doubt that he has stolen, deal with him as you are sure is best. Tell him he is guilty, but don't be such a bully as to try to force him to confess then. If you don't have objective evidence, don't ask him about the matter. Don't put him on trial. Don't ask him to incriminate himself. Courts of justice don't. When you force a child to testify against himself you practice him in lying and cause relations toward you to render him more ready to deceive. Just try to protect him from further temptation.

Study his usual ways of respecting the possessions of others in your presence. Consider the relationship within your whole family, especially between you and the other parent. If there are strained relations and lack of mutual trust between you parents you both might want, for the child's sake, to improve this relationship.

Ask yourself how the child feels toward each of you parents and other members of the family. Does he feel he is understood and loved as other children in the family? How worthy does he feel among his playmates?

Do anything you can to help him gain self-esteem and a feeling of worthwhileness. This will take time, patience, effort.

The estate holders have been indignant over forcible seizures of their land by the peasantry. De Gasperi must replace this by measures which are short of communism and which he cannot afford to alienate the right-wing. Conservative factions which own the land and comprise—along with the church—his great allies against communism.

De Gasperi made good his promise that the government would not stand by idly in event of violence.

He placed at the disposal of Interior Minister Mario Scelba approximately 150 thousand police and armed militiamen.

He made a special point, however, of ordering guards to use streams of water from fire hoses to break up unauthorized gatherings—a comparatively harmless if uncomfortable substitute for the usual system of firing over the heads of crowds.

The latter system almost invariably ends up in casualties and reprisals, leaving the situation worse than it was before.

The labor situation in Italy is aided and at the same time complicated by the fact that there are two entirely separate groups.

The labor situation in Italy is aided and at the same time complicated by the fact that there are two entirely separate groups.

There is the general Confederation of Labor, which is communist and has a membership of some five millions.

Then there is the free labor group, with about half this number, which is anti-Communist.

Stage Permanently Set
This means that the stage is permanently set for clashes between the two, while at the same time the free labor group is more or less a guarantee that at no time will the Communist be able to close down Italy's industry, commerce and transportation entirely.

That is unless the Communists, by dint of diligent efforts and vast funds, succeed in taking over politically.

De Gasperi has come through crisis after crisis and has maintained a degree of stability which is almost miraculous in view of the magnitude of Communist attempts to create disorder and by so doing upset his government.

His triumph—for anything less than disaster is just that—was apparent so far as yesterday's demonstration of the Communists. Whether he can survive against such assaults is the big problem. His land reforms, if effected speedily and with resourcefulness, may swing the future balance heavily in his favor.

They Say

WASHINGTON — Sen. McCarthy (R) Wis. . . "I have given the Senate investigators the names. Now it is up to the President to put up or shut up."

BELGRADE — Former U. S. Assistant Attorney General O. John Rogge . . . "Yugoslavia impresses me as being the first heretic under Communism. I am a heretic myself and like other heretics."

KEY WEST, Fla. — President Truman . . . "There is still a need in this country for good homes at prices which families of moderate income, particularly those with children, can afford."

BRUSSELS — Former Belgian Premier Gaston Eyskens . . . "It is practically impossible to form a government with sufficient parliamentary backing, and the political situation is extremely grave."

State Police Say:

Official signs are greeted along all highways for the guidance and protection of the motorist, but for some reason or other a large number of our drivers consistently disregard the warnings embodied in the signs.

Last year State Police apprehended 11,787 drivers for stop sign violations, 9,132 were arrested for improper passing, 26,672 were charged with exceeding the speed limit. How else could the motorist be warned of hazardous conditions and other regulations than by the use of warning signs? They really are signs of life. It is your duty to look for and obey them.

Get your cook book? The U. S. Government with your money have printed up a raft of 'em. Each member of Congress got 3,000 copies . . . which we expect they will distribute around . . . The contents of this cook book was prepared by experts hired by the Agriculture Department for this purpose. . . . Could be . . . just how the "book" will be handed out is difficult. . . . Maybe a box top from an atom bomb or reasonable facsimile of same . . . or in exchange for a vote of confidence. If the book doesn't contain the proper preparation of powdered eggs in the home kitchen . . . we will be disappointed. Maybe it will tell how to make blue potato soup. Anyhow . . . the cook books are printed, as were a lot of other such stuff . . . and that makes news, as far as spending tax money is concerned.

Well what do you know? . . . a woman finally saw the light and was strong enough to admit what she believes. . . . That Men are the best housekeepers. . . . Wait a moment. That wouldn't sound very good around the little woman . . . she might just say "OK if men are wonders in the housekeeping job, let's see you take over the house for a week. Yes my love, but that is what the woman said . . . and besides it's a mother's love that makes the children happy . . . and that goes along with housekeeping. But the real fact that was expressed by Mrs. Mary K. Heiner, who made the statement, concerned the facts that men invented the washing machine, modern detergents and enamel surfacing. . . . Probably if all the facts were known, the men were forced into these inventions . . . to help keep the "little woman" from complaining so much. Anyhow, the statement probably hit home in a lot of cases with so much talk these days about woman rights in business etc.

Can't get an argument started . . . we learned early in married life that it really doesn't pay to start an argument about house-keeping. . . . Only one way to prove such a topic . . . and after scrubbing the kitchen floor once it seemed that it was a poor way to prove a point. So maybe it is just better to let some woman from far away places make the statement that men are better housekeepers than women. . . . Here in New Castle the topic is closed . . . we hope.

Washington Calling

(By Marquis Childs)

Truman Works On Appointments

WASHINGTON, March 24—One thing President Truman has been doing during his so-called vacation in Florida and that is to work out a series of appointments to important government offices that too long have been vacant. These steps have been urgently needed if the United States was in reality to conduct "total diplomacy" in a cold war.

The president has worked out these steps in consultation with Chief Justice Fred Vinson. Contrary to the spate of rumors, they are unrelated to Secretary Acheson and the state department.

Kind of Package Deal
A kind of package deal is being devised to provide a series of appointments that will greatly strengthen the administration if they do finally go through. At the present stage of negotiations these three appointments seem to be fairly firm:

W. Stuart Symington, now secretary of the air force, to be chairman of the National Security Resources Board. Symington has been air secretary since unification, serving under the late James Forrestal and for the past year under Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson.

Thomas K. Finletter, until recently administrator of the ECA aid in London, to succeed Symington as secretary for air. Finletter served as chairman of the president's air policy commission. That commission in 1947 and '48 wrote a comprehensive report on all phases of aviation in this country, both military and civil. The report approved a 70-group air force.

Robert P. Patterson, under secretary of war during World War II and later secretary of war, to be chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. Patterson spent the past 10 days in Washington in consultation with government officials.

Last of Three Doubtful
Of the three the last is still in the doubtful category. Patterson denies that he intends returning to government. He has been deeply reluctant to leave his New York law practice. But it is believed here that in the end he may be persuaded.

The chairmanship of the National Security Resources Board has been vacant for nearly a year and a half. This is theoretically a vital planning agency. The president named as chairman in February of 1949 his old friend, former Governor Mon Wallgren of the state of Washington. President Truman explained at that time he wanted in the chairmanship of this important agency a friend with whom he could speak intimately and confidentially.

The senate, with Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia helping to block the appointment, refused to confirm Wallgren, who was later named to a place on the Federal Power Commission. Since that time Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman has been acting chairman. But his has been a far-from-satisfactory situation. The other members are all cabinet officers—state, treasury, defense, interior, agriculture, commerce and labor—with many demands on their time from their own departments.

Partner In Law Firm
Finletter has been a partner in Coudert Brothers, a large Manhattan law firm, since he left Washington in 1944. From 1941 to 44 he was special assistant to the secretary of state. Representative Frederick R. Coudert, Jr., New York City Republican, is a partner in the Coudert firm.

While Finletter is generally regarded as a Republican, partisan politics have played little or no part in his government service. He went to England for ECA in 1948 with the rank of minister and served for a year.

Patterson first came to Washington to serve under President Roosevelt in July of 1940, the most critical stage of the phony war. His advent coincided with that of two other Republicans, the late Frank Knox, who became secretary of the navy, and Henry L. Stimson, who accepted the post of secretary of war. Patterson became under secretary of war in December of 1940.

Fair Dealers Not Happy
There is, in a sense, something symbolic about the prospective return of men who served their time in that other war. Fair Dealers will not be made happy by it, just as New Dealers were not happy over the entrance of Knox, Stimson and the other "Wall Street lawyers" who came to Washington with them.

But if there is to be any real and meaningful organization of the nation's resources for peace and/or war, then some such step as this is essential. An organization that exists for the most part on the law books and with the facade of a telephone number is no organization at all. Here is action that has long been imperative if the world crisis is half as grave as we have been led to believe.

One Man's Opinion

By Walter Kiernan

(By International News Service)

Capt. Crommelin is toying with the idea of running for Congress . . . it's the best offer he's had to extend his remarks.

I hear Sen. McCarthy would rather see him in the State department . . . He'd like to have one man there who would talk without urging.

That's the big problem in Washington today . . . to get some people to talk and others to quit.

But those McCarthy hearings turned up one phenomenon in the lady who belonged to 38 organizations and didn't know all the details of each of them.

I know a woman who belongs to 39 and can spot a repeat dress on any member at any meeting.

It's hard to tell fact from fantasy in these Washington hearings but, as the old lady said when she smelled smoke "Whatever it is . . . it didn't result from damp matches."

WEATHER THOUGHT
Too late to care how March came in.
Since weather is contrary,
My hope is April won't begin
With storms of January.

Since February's days were mild,
As one and all remember,
I pray May's gardens won't be piled
With snows due last December.

The word all lovers smile upon,
The wedding vows and ring time,
But none likes winter lingering on
The lovely lap of springtime.

The Silent Satisfaction

(By HOLMES ALEXANDER)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 24.—You can't put your finger on it. Much of the unfriendly feeling toward the State Department is stuff that hasn't come out of Senator McCarthy's celebrated brief case. It's a curious thing, but there it is—a subdued, unspoken, rather ashamed desire that the senator, even if he doesn't prove his case, will give the department a good roughing-up.

You won't, to repeat, find this feeling expressed in so many words. Democrats continue to issue pious statements of indignation against McCarthy's smear-tactics. Republicans for the most part are a bit embarrassed by the crudities of the rough young senator from Wisconsin. And commentators in the absence of solid proof to uphold McCarthy's charges are bound to express themselves in the stern generalities of reproval.

Story Within Main Plot

Yes, but there's a story here within the main plot. It's the familiar and highly American story of the snobby, supercilious dandy who gets his nose punched by the boy from across the railroad tracks. It's the story of the come-uppance of the dude. We might as well be frank about it. In any popularity contest among Washington agencies, the state department would run a poor last. And this at a time when several other departments—Defense, Justice and Agriculture—are catching an extraordinary amount of abuse. But the state department has a built-in disfavor with most Americans who have any contact there. Although the striped pants are mostly gone and the veddy-veddy British intonations are going, there's an air of superior knowledge and simulated mystery which doesn't win friends. Add to this the known fact that the state department somehow seems to attract persons of unwholesome morals, and you have another reason for the subdued hope that McCarthy, a very masculine type and nobody's intellectual, will at least muss up the hair and maybe jolt the state department's mincing ways.

Blast Of Anti-State Sentiment

This feeling extends to persons around town who have no affinity for McCarthy's earthy character. At a luncheon recently I heard quite a blast of anti-state sentiment among a group which included bankers, lawyers and global-minded journalists. Much of the conversation dealt with the state department's recent torpedoing of the Atlantic Union plan. This was a proposal that the president call a convention to draft a federal constitution for the several Atlantic democracies. There are a good many sound reasons why the state department could not endorse the proposal. But the department went out of its way to express a flat disapproval. The underlying argument seemed to be that no convention of laymen could be trusted to deal with world affairs as well as the state department could.

Ideas Not Popular

Maybe not, but here we have both the air of superiority and an innate distrust of democratic processes, such as political conventions and legislative bodies. You can't expect such ideas to be popular on Capitol Hill or among persons of merely ordinary intelligence. Indeed, it's now a common criticism that the state department is conducting the cold war with precious little knowledge of how much ordinary people want peace. The state department gains no popularity when it slaps down even the dreamiest of peace plans and comes out in favor of "total diplomacy". To shift the metaphor a bit, there's something about the department's cold war attitude which is reminiscent of the old jingle:

"Here lies the body of John Day

Who insisted upon his right of way.

He was right, dead right, as he sped along.

But he's just as dead now as if he'd been wrong!"

Levelled At Secretary Acheson

McCarthy's attack, of course, is leveled against Secretary Acheson—another reason for the submerged satisfaction. It's hard to recall any official of importance who's lost so much good will so quickly as the unhappy secretary of state. More's the pity because Mr. Acheson has all the experience and mental equipment to make the finest foreign minister in our times. At the turn of the year the skies above Washington were ringing with his praise. He'd established the Atlantic Pact. He'd beaten back the foolish demand that we defend Formosa. Many who had doubts about the job he'd done kept discreet silence. But what a difference a few weeks have made! All his natural enemies rushed out to hoot at his Aigis Hiss statement, and where are all those admirers who sang his praise? The secretary plainly shows the strain of it all. Even his famed mustache no longer bristles with the old defiance.

As for McCarthy, no one of any standing cares to approve his methods or to predict his ultimate success. But a lot of otherwise honest people are tut-tutting his wholesale charges while getting quite a bang out of them just the same.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

A lot of people seem to think that to look at life one must travel far and wide, frequent famous night clubs, mix with the high and mighty, go lion-hunting and do a lot of crazy thing far away from home.

All that is a lot of fun, of course, and gives the looker-at-life thrills and excitement—up to a point.

But LIFE is not lived by thrills alone, any more than pepper alone is a full meal. Thrills and pepper are only condiments.

A well-cooked dinner does not need much of condiments to be palatable. A well-lived life does not need many thrills to be enjoyable.

This is not a homily in favor of monotony.

There should be change. There should be mountains as well as valleys. There should be sunshine as well as rain, summer as well as winter.

But for change and variety you don't need to go too far away from home. Fun, for most of us, is within an easy reach.

I am just recuperating from one of the most enjoyable evenings of my life. Yes, I have a headache, and I could stand another three or four hours of sleep.

But what of it? The piper must be paid. Life extracts a cover charge just as the night club does.

Ben Friedman, the Bridgeport wrestling promoter, phoned me and asked me to come to the evening's match. It was an especially good program, he said.

All Baba, the Turk from Kurdistan, would be there. He would wrestle "Gorgeous" George Becker," that ferocious strong man. There would The Wolf Man from Alaska, who has been disqualified

Two Young Women Catholic Pioneers

DETROIT—(INS)—Two young Detroit women have volunteered to become pioneers of a new Catholic community of sisters. The new missionary group will wear modern garb and will work among the negro population. The Sisters will be known as the Home Visitors of Mary and will act as liaison officers between the individuals and the parishes in Michigan.

The first two candidates are Mary Schutz, a former librarian, and Agnes McInnis, former army nurse. Both have left their professional lives and have taken up residence in the St. George Convent in Detroit.

Ring And Cross

The candidate to the new community will be postulants for the first six months. During this time, they will wear a navy blue poplin shirt-waist styled dress with long sleeves and white poplin collar and cuffs. The dress will be 12 inches from the floor. A navy blue gabardine inner-lined topcoat and a navy snap brim felt hat will complete the outdoor outfit.

The postulants become novices at the end of six months and then will wear a navy blue tailored, hard worsted suit and a light blue cotton blouse. They will also wear this uniform at the end of their novitiate when they become professed sisters.

After their profession, the sisters will wear a ring and a cross.

The Rev. Fr. John C. Ryan, sponsor of the new community, explained the Sisters' work will be part of "an intensive program of regular home visiting."

Housewives Prefer Colorful Kitchens

The all-white kitchen may soon join the buggy and gaslight as a relic of the past. Today's housewife wants color in her kitchen, according to a survey of home-makers' kitchen color preferences. About 77 per cent of housekeepers questioned on a nationwide poll by color engineer Howard Ketcham named colors other than white as their kitchen choice. Yellow was first choice of 17.9 per cent, 15 per cent selected blue-green, 13 picked gray, and eight per cent chose green.

The girl said she did all these things because she feared the man would expose her theft of a five-cent notebook.

Johnson Will Head U.S. Defense Week

WASHINGTON—Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson accepted the honorary national chairmanship of National Defense Week, which will be observed May 13-20. It will be climaxed by the first annual Armed Forces Day.

"Until world peace is assured, America must remain militarily strong," Johnson said. "To do so under our way of life and our economy, special emphasis must be placed on the role which is played by our military reservists both in peace and war."

Death Due To Natural Causes

PITTSBURGH, March 24—(INS)—Allegheny county detectives today dropped the investigation into the death of Mrs. Agnes Matevich, 48, after an autopsy showed she died of natural causes.

The body of the domestic worker was found yesterday in the yard of a building supply firm in Pittsburgh's McKees Rocks district. Because of the circumstances, police thought at first she might have died violently. But the autopsy showed death was due to "acute and chronic myocarditis."

The woman's husband, Mitchell Metavich, said she had been in poor health for some time. He said she was accustomed to leaving home for weeks at a time to do domestic work, and that he had not seen her for three weeks.

Mt. Jackson Area Census On Sunday

Mt. Jackson district of Lawrence County Sabbath School association has completed plans for a religious census Sunday, March 26.

The project includes Mahoning, North Beaver and Little Beaver townships besides the borough of Enon Valley and Bessemer. Someone in each home of those districts is asked to remain at home to answer simple questions that will be asked next Sunday afternoon between two and six o'clock.

About 400 canvassers will work together to get information that will be valuable to every church in the district. James Eakin, Lyle Gibson and Miss Lois McKean compose the committee of arrangements.

Dancer In Coma

NEW YORK CITY—Bettie Jane Moore, ex-Follies Bergere dancer, is on the critical list in the hospital here after being found in a coma on a burning bed in her hotel room. Hotel employees rescued the red-head, who, according to an ambulance doctor, seemed to be suffering from the effects of barbiturate poisoning. Five notes, two sealed, were found, police said, indicating suicide. One of them said, "I had to do this. I'm so tired. Please bury me next to mother." It was addressed to an aunt in Philadelphia.

Service Officers Study Radiology

COLUMBUS, O.—(INS)—A small group of officers representing each branch of the armed services currently is undergoing preparation at Ohio State University against the day this nation may have to defend itself against atomic attack.

Ten officers, ranging in rank from a Navy commander to an Army first lieutenant, comprise the detachment, tabbed officially a "radiological defense group."

After the officers have completed their courses, they will serve as advisors to U. S. military commanders on the new and technical problems involved in defense against radioactive materials.

Another such training group is in existence at the University of California in Berkeley, Calif., where 27 officers are enrolled.

The committee plans to enlist the aid of merchants in the restoration program. Store fronts will be restored to the 1880 mode, wooden sidewalks laid and advertising signs taken down. All overhead utility lines will be removed and placed underground.

Thar's Chivalry In New England

MANCHESTER, N. H., March 24.—(INS)—Thar's chivalry in them thar hills of New Hampshire. Apparently it's been holing up in this section during all the years it's been AWOL in other regions.

Gentlemen, particularly gentlemen of the jury, do not like to see other gentlemen rough up the alleged weaker sex in public. I am told by eminent legal eagles roosting in Manchester.

This explains why the defense in the murder trial of Dr. Hermann N. Sander has failed to use the verbal rubber hose on the state's principal witnesses, almost all women, under cross examination.

As a reporter with a soupcon of experience in murder trials and in the tactics of Thomas E. Dewey, I have been plumb puzzled and fascinated by the politeness of defense counsel Louis E. Wyman in the handling of the state's lady witnesses when the girls were plainly hanging on the ropes.

When one of the state's star witnesses, nurse Elizabeth Rose, 24, blew her lines and almost threw the state's case out the window with her many contradictory and signed statements, I expected the defense to move in with a slashing, smashing, merciless attack à la the movies, the Marines or Thomas E.

Hesitate To Predict
I hesitate to predict what might have happened to Miss Rose if she had been subjected to the incessant, snarling, hammering verbal assaults that are common in the courtrooms of New York when murder is in the dock.

As this dead pan girl stood in the witness box toward the end of her day and a half of testimony, she was plainly frightened and overwhelmed by her part in this spectacular trial. Behind the expressionless little face, there was something akin to panic.

And I had a hunch then and I still do that one of the cruel, slugging, relentless attacks of less chivalrous courts would have had a shattering effect on this young and unsophisticated girl, caught in the toils of something too big for her.

But when Wyman, the old Roman and far-and-away the shrewdest man in the court room, began his cross examination of Miss Rose, he was calm and courteous, even after he had backed her into a maze of her own contradictions.

Just when a nasty character like myself felt that a roll of defense thunder and a flash of lightning would bring down the state's star witness, Wyman, silver-haired and 72, was at his silkiest, most soothing best.

Established Points
Oh, he established his points all right. He brought out the contradictions in nurse Rose's testimony and statements. But I thought with the old pile-driver technique he could have scored a kavo for the defense instead, perhaps, of a victory on points.

But the kind people and gentle lawyers of Manchester tell me that if Wyman had bullied the 24-year-old nurse or even raised his voice to her, the jury would have given the decision by default to the state.

Beating women, either physically or mentally, is still looked upon with disfavor in this section of the United States. Disfavor? Gad, only a cad would raise his hand or his voice to a woman!

Wyman, indigenous to this heath, refrained from blowing his topper or his case. He handled Miss Rose with kid gloves. He treated her with a courtesy that if not precisely old world was at least out of this world in my experience in murder trials.

Indeed, the whole case is being conducted on a high Alfonso-Gaston level of deportment guaranteed to stun anyone who stumbles into the Sander trial after a look-see at the rough-and-tumble tactics of the American Communist Politburo trial before Judge Medina, for instance.

There has been no wrasslin' in the Manchester court room, no callopie screaming and no trial by studied insult.

In the courtroom here, everything is as polite as you please. Chivalry isn't dead in New Hampshire. Shucks, it ain't even sick!

Buckeye's Harlan A Triple-Threat

COLUMBUS, O.—(INS)—Bruce Harlan, although not a grid star, is something of a triple-threat for Ohio State University—on the land, in the air, and on the sea.

Harlan, an Olympic diving champion, performs for both the Ohio State swimming and gymnastic teams.

As is often the case, both teams stage home meets the same day on the Columbus campus.

When that happens, Harlan goes into his triple-threat act, performing in the fancy dive for the tankers and in the tumbling and trampolene events for the gymnasts.

So far this season he is undefeated in all three specialties.

Late Bonus Seekers To Get Late Checks

HARRISBURG, March 24—(INS)—Tardy veterans just signing up for the state bonus may as well reconcile themselves to a two-month wait before any action can be given their claims.

Rankin said today there is no point in contacting the bureau for claims filed recently or forwarding supplemental information overlooked in the original application. Rankin pointed out that veterans who have not yet received their discharge papers or have not been asked to submit supplemental information are assured that their check is being processed.

As of today the bureau is dipping into the application filled mail bags tagged January 24, the date they reached the bureau.

Sees No Immediate Decrease In Farm Exports To Europe

WASHINGTON, March 24—An Agriculture department official says increased European production does not endanger U.S. farm exports.

Keith Himebaugh, the department's top information specialist, just returned from a three-month European tour, said increased farm production overseas will have a hard time keeping up with increasing population.

He said that although improvements in farm production and more output is needed in Europe they "will come slowly." He said that in many countries farmers are hostile to government suggestions and continue to follow the practices of their fathers.

Himebaugh also said that most people living in countries receiving Marshall Plan aid are not aware of the help they get from the U.S. farmers especially do not hear about the Economic Cooperation Administration program because rural information means are scarce.

State Submits Funds To Fight Fire Which Burns Under School

HARRISBURG, March 24—(INS)—The Kulpmont school district accepted $35,000 in state emergency funds to aid in the fight against a two-year-old coal mine fire threatening Kulpmont high school.

Gov. James H. Duff gave the check to Anthony Nestico, president of the school district.

Engineers estimated $105,000 was necessary to purchase services and equipment to quell the underground blaze. The fire was thought to be under control until engineers recently discovered the flames were searing the mine vein beneath the school building.

The federal government will supply the balance of the needed money.

Bigamy Booming In Great Britain

LONDON — (INS) — Bigamy is booming in Britain.

Investigations have proved that bigamous marriages are more common in Britain than any other European country. It is estimated that there are 20,000 undiscovered cases of bigamy.

The state will not make any effort to uncover these illicit marriages and it is only when some relative becomes suspicious and checks over the records that a bigamous marriage is discovered. The chances against these marriages being discovered, according to some estimates, are between 20 and 50 to 1. It is believed that for every bigamy case which comes before the courts, there are at least 20 which remain undiscovered.

In Somerset House, Britain's huge building where all details of marriages, births and deaths are recorded, no automatic check is made to match details of current marriages with those which have gone before.

A spokesman for registrar general's office said: "The system is not intended to reveal bigamies."

And so thousands of illegal marriages will remain unrevealed. Nobody will look at the records unless they become suspicious.

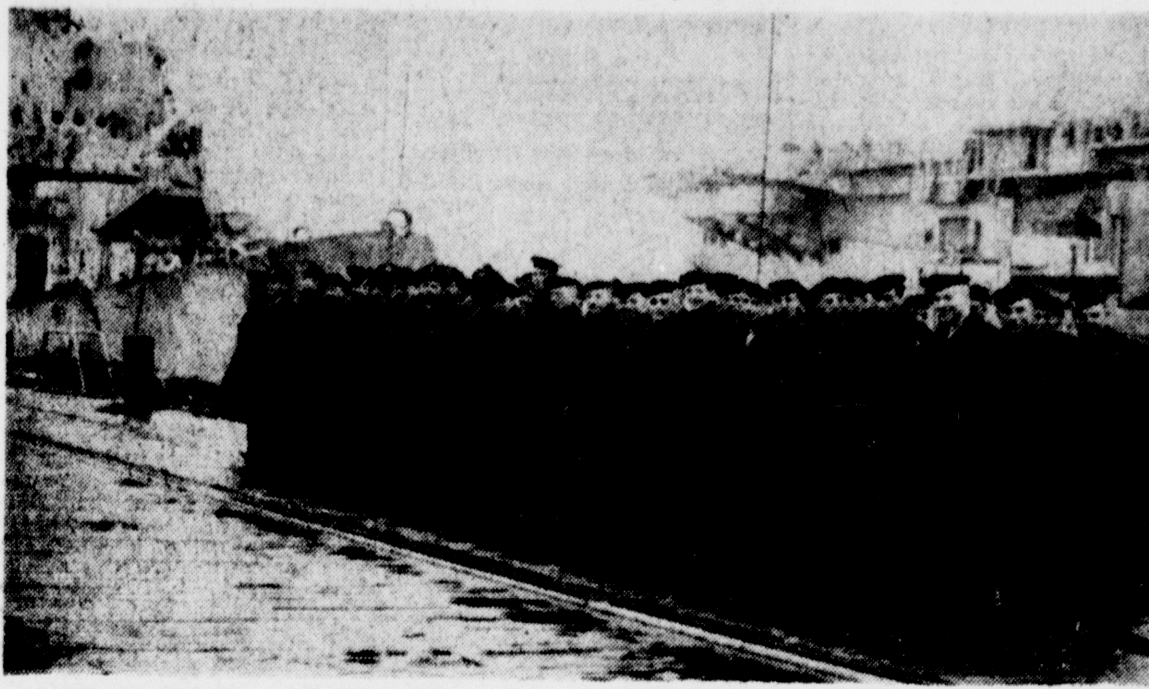

Legal experts stated that even if a case is discovered, there still is an outside chance it will never go to court, for the difficulties of proving bigamy to the satisfaction of a judge are many.

Auto Workers Reject Plan To End Strike

DETROIT, March 24.—(INS)—The CIO-United Auto Workers today rejected, moments after it was made, Chrysler corporation's offer to set up a $30,000,000 fund to guarantee pensions for its 89,000 employees.

The union charged the offer to end the 59-day-old strike fell short of "the pattern established by Chrysler competitors."

The company said the fund would be "more than sufficient" to guarantee $100 a month pensions for life to employees who retire during the next five years.

The union countered the plan "would not provide Chrysler workers with the pension and medical benefits which other companies granted their workers."

Builders Plan Spring Dinner

Plans were completed for the annual spring dinner of the Order of the Builders at their semi-monthly meeting in the Cathedral Wednesday evening. Master Builder David Lewis announced today. This event will take place on April 11.

Randall Mooney has been named master of ceremonies and a time program is being arranged for the occasion.

At the close of last night's business session P. H. Rice of the Pennsylvania state police gave an interesting talk on state police methods.

Rail Strike Authorized

CLEVELAND, March 24.—(INS)

A nation-wide strike against railroads has been authorized by members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers.

Results of a strike referendum among the union's 11,000 members were announced by Brotherhood President D. B. Robertson at union headquarters in Cleveland last night.

Whether an actual walkout will be called, however, will depend on results of negotiations expected to be resumed in Chicago within the next two days between carrier officials and union representatives.

The strike vote was initiated last spring after an emergency federal mediation board investigated union demands for the assignment of additional firemen on all diesel locomotives in road service.

The issue has been under discussion between the union and railroads for several years.

Cold Storage Food Demands On Increase

HARRISBURG, March 24.—(INS)—Demands for cold storage foods during February caused a sharp drop in stocks, the state agriculture department reported today.

Storage shrinkage was noted in apples and all dairy products. Eggs showed a small gain, a federal-state survey revealed.

The department reported Pennsylvania farmers plan smaller acreages this season than last of corn, oats and potatoes, but indicate they will increase planting of barley, soybeans, tobacco and hay.

Potato acreage will be the lowest since the Civil war, due for the most part of the bumper crop that flooded markets this year. The 100,000 planned acres will be 4,000 under the previous year.

Corn acreage will be two per cent and oats four per cent under 1949 plantings, the department reported.

Barley, an increasingly important feed grain, will shoot up 20 per cent to 163,000 acres while tobacco will go up two per cent to 38,900 acres and soybeans 10 per cent to 46,000 acres.

The state's expanding dairy business prompted a two per cent production jump to 2,437,000 acres. The 899,000 acres turned over to winter wheat is four per cent less than the 1949 planting, the department reported.

RURAL HOMES

CORVALLIS, Ore. — The average western rural family prefers a one-story home, a recent government survey showed. It must have basement, screened or glassed back porch, a kitchen with dining nook, a dining room centralized sewing and laundry accommodations and a covered area for drying clothes. Eighty-six percent of the rural families questioned had electricity. 80 percent had some sort of plumbing and half had telephones.

EAST-MARK TRADED FOR WEST-MARK

BERLIN, GERMANY—West Berlin housewife exchanges one West-mark for nine East-marks in an American Sector black market transaction. Rumors of monetary reform in East Zone of Germany pulled the rug out from under the East-mark. Housewife will use the East-marks to buy food at bargain prices in Western sector where official rate remains one for one.

Roulette Player Just A Burglar

MONTE CARLO — (INS)—The disclosure that a portly, middle-aged roulette player who had lived quietly in Monte Carlo for ten years was a master burglar wanted by police in the United States, Italy and France has rocked the off-season calm of the fabulous Riviera resort.

Almost any afternoon, this inoffensive looking man could be seen strolling along the beach or watching a game of "boules". His real name was Louis Actis-Dato, but acquaintances here knew him as Gilletti.

Police recently arrested Actis-Dato in Paris. They said they found him carrying a "magic key," an instrument he had invented with which he could open 47 different locks.

This key—tiny, light and delicate as the mechanism of a watch, has been described by police as a work of genius.

According to authorities Actis-

Dato's last job was the 25,000,000-franc robbery of a Paris jewelry shop last January. Police said Actis-Dato and his accomplices let themselves into an unoccupied apartment and then cut a hole through the floor to a room downstairs where the jewelry stocks were located.

People in Monte Carlo who saw him almost daily never suspected "Gilletti" was a jewel-robber or a man who could dream up a "magic" key.

Usually he spent an hour or two every morning with the system players in the Casino. But he remained inconspicuous by never betting heavily.

Then he would leave the Casino, quietly do his marketing and return to the furnished room he occupied with a lady friend who was arrested with him in Paris.

During the war, in order to have an identity card, he worked in Monaco as a mechanic. He told acquaintances he formerly had been employed by the Fiat Motor plant in Turin.

Proposes Farmer Safety Measures

DURHAM, N. H.—(INS)—Ten safety resolutions for 1950 to prevent life-wasting accidents on farms were drawn up recently by Halstead N. Colby, extension agricultural engineer at the University of New Hampshire.

Colby said: "If the pattern for 1950 follows that of the past two years, there will be an average of 2400 accidents daily to farm people in the United States and some 4000 persons will die in these agricultural accidents".

Here are his ten safety resolutions for farm families and others as well:

1—We will continually check the farm and home to locate and remove all hazards.

2—We will observe at all times safety rules governing the operation of machinery and other farm and household equipment.

3—We will observe the safety rules of the road, both as drivers of vehicles and as pedestrians.

4—We will cover all slippery and icy areas on which we walk, and keep off thin ice on rivers and lakes.

5—We will be sure that all electrical appliances and cords are in good shape, and promptly cover all frayed or bare wires.

6—We will be sure that all heating devices are safely separated from flammable material by fireproof material.

7—We will see that the farm and home are properly lighted.

8—We will check all ladders, steps and stairways to make sure they are sturdy and safe to use.

9—We will handle all poisons and explosives carefully, and keep them labeled and out of reach of children.

10—We will encourage year-round participation in farm safety activities by the organizations to which we belong.

Folks Of Fame

Georges Bizet, French composer, was born in Boulogne, near Paris, October 15, 1838. He studied music at the Paris Conservatory and won the Grand Prix prize for a cantata. After three years in Rome, Italy, he returned to Paris and won a reputation as pianist and accompanist. He composed his first opera, "Les Pecheurs de Perles" ("The Pearl Fishers"), produced in 1863. It did not enjoy a long run but contains some delightful music. Other operas followed. His "Carmen" was given at the Opera Comique in March, 1875. It is considered today one of the most successful of all operas. Three months later the composer died in Paris, June 3, 1875.

Daniel Webster was born in Salisbury, N. H., January 18, 1782, and became a great statesman, lawyer and orator. His early schooling was primitive, but he had a great love of books. It is said of him that he was called indolent, but could do more work in a day than others in a week. His mind seized the essence of things. After college he went into a practicing lawyer's office, and was admitted to the bar in 1805. He became a member of the House of Representatives and used his eloquence to oppose the Madison administration and the War of 1812. He served later in both House and Senate, and was once considered as presidential candidate, but was not nominated. He died October 24, 1852, at his country home, Marshfield, Mass.

WHEN SHOULD A MAN OFFER HIS ARM TO COMPANION

Question: Please give me the proper procedure when a man and a woman are walking along the street; that is, when should he take her arm and when should she take his?

Answer: A man should offer his arm to an aged woman or to an invalid when his support is needed. A woman well able to take care of herself should not take a man's arm during daylight hours unless conditions such as a rough sidewalk or a dangerous crossing warrant his assistance. He should offer his arm to a woman companion when she goes up or down steps and when she walks along a dark thoroughfare to prevent her stumbling and falling.

Question: When I enter a public dining room and am seated by a waiter or a hostess, should I thank him or her for this service?

Answer: This is not necessary since such service is in line with their regular duties. Thank them for any special service given.

Question: Is it correct for the groom to kiss the bride at the altar after the ceremony?

Answer: Yes, but this custom is fading. The groom should be the first to kiss the bride and this should be remembered by guests who rush to the bride as she leaves the church.

QUESTION: At what time of day is it permissible to serve a buffet meal?

Answer: At any time—at breakfast served at noon; luncheon at one or two o'clock; or supper in the evening, as well as at an afternoon reception.

Present your problems to Miss Markel who will promptly send personal replies to questions from readers inclosing stamped, addressed envelopes.

Patrons Do Well In Casino Game

MONTE CARLO — (INS) — The most popular game with gamblers at Monte Carlo at the moment is "Tout Va" because they have been able to "clap" the Casino for approximately 70 million francs since the beginning of the year.

This is one of the biggest and steadiest losses ever registered at the Casino and in an effort to break this unlucky Tout Va (Everything Goes) streak, the Casino administration has temporarily brought in a new banker.

So far the new banker has been holding his own, with neither spectacular wins nor losses.

Tout Va is the only baccara game in which the Casino itself plays against its clients.

About two million people live in the Sahara desert.

Babson Discusses Need Of Teaching Factory Workers

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright—1950—Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 24—Private ownership has lost the support of millions of workers. Why? Because management has never taken the time to bridge the gap between the front office and the shop with the romantic story of the American free enterprise system.

The Workers' Attitude
We have assumed that the schools have been giving our youth an understanding of various economic systems and then pointing out the advantages of American free enterprise. The schools have not done the job. Ask a few simple questions of Roger W. Babson any one in your own family and you will see what I mean. They have failed in this as in teaching spelling and arithmetic.

Get your ear to the ground in your own shop and I will warrant you will be plain scared when you find how many workers believe management is just raking in the dough. They will even quote you figures: "The boss gets 75 cents of each dollar and we poor suckers get a miserable 25 cents!" And wait until you hear what they think about profit reserves! They are convinced that stockholders have only one interest: to grow rich by exploiting the workers. Down with all stockholders! Talk about advertising—that is a foolish waste of money. If the company was really interested in the worker, it would give him the money it spends for advertising! In short, too many wage workers honestly believe that stockholders rob them of a rightful living; they think that the government should take over and do away with profits.

Management's Attitude
Can responsible free business survive with an antagonistic working force? The answer to this question is an emphatic "No". Management has too often looked upon the worker as a "hired man". With this attitude, management must defend its prerogatives, or "good-bye" to American supremacy.

I wonder how many businessmen have recognized the significance of what General Eisenhower said about the "inseparability of all the freedoms". If you really believe that some of our freedoms cannot be kept while others are flung to the winds, then you believe that all our personal, political and social freedoms can survive only with the survival of our economic freedom—which includes freedom to work, to own, to save, to sell, to buy, to compete, and to bargain honestly without the use of force by either side.

If you are really enthusiastic about the American way, a system that enables six per cent of the world's population to out-produce the other 94 per cent, why have you kept it a secret? Why haven't our employees learned that the American system provides more goods and services for the wage-workers themselves than any other system in the world—in spite of its imperfections.

The time is now to sell America. Dig up the facts. Toss out comparative statistics. Bring in D. P.'s who have lived under Communism and Socialism to tell how they fared as workers. Use your PA system, house organ, posters, supervisors to give the worker information he wants and needs. Let him know what it costs to own and maintain a factory, repair and replace equipment, provide power, labor and materials, the cost of waste—and don't forget taxes!

There has been a lot of loose talk about profits. We should show wage workers how company reserves mean protection for their jobs, how they should encourage venture capital. A few statistics on advertising should be helpful reminding workers that the fellow on the next machine got his job as a result of the company spending more on advertising.

It won't be hard to prove that the fellow who thinks it is OK to soak the employer with taxes is just soaking himself in the long run. Every employee should know how much capital it takes to provide him with his job. I have faith in the intelligence of our employees; but management must build a friendly bridge between the front office and the back shop. The free enterprise system succeeds when the white and blue collars work together.

LOSING BUSINESS
KNOXVILLE (INS)—Businessmen who cut prices in an attempt to recover decreasing volume of sales are likely to come out losers, according to a University of Tennessee survey for the state's building material association. Prof. William C. Henry of the U-T Bureau of Business Research directed the survey, obtaining financial data from 20 representative building material dealers throughout the state.

Many American Leaders Carried Papers In Youth

Governor Thomas E. Dewey and Walt Disney have something in common, and it has nothing to do with either politics or Mickey Mouse.

The governor of New York and the cartoonist both launched their famed careers from the same starting point: They were newspaperboys.

As the nation observed Newspaperboy's day, many another of the country's top personalities could trace their successes back down the ladder to their first job of tossing newspapers on doorsteps.

Bob Hope and Bing Crosby, who now make headlines at the drop of a gag, once delivered headlines in their hometown. So did Red Skelton, cartoonist Jimmy Hatlo and radio narrator Ted Malone. Even Al Jolson can remember "way back when he was a newspaperboy."

Big Four Alumni
Few companies deal in such big figures as U. S. Steel, the A. T. & T., Lever Brothers soap company, and R. C. A. The presidents of all four firms did some of their earliest figuring totting up the weekly bills of their newspaper customers.

They are Benjamin Fairless, Leroy A. Wilson, Charles Luckman and David Sarnoff.

Sports stars who once served newspapers are a dime a dozen. Commissioner A. B. Chandler, the ex-senator who now runs baseball, and Mike Jacobs, who had the corner on the fight market until recently, also served.

U. S. Supreme Court Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson, whose court produces the nation's most important judicial headlines, belongs to the newspaperboys' alumni, as do associates Justices William Douglas and Tom Clark.

Other "graduates" of this learn-business-young school included such governors, ex-governors, senators and representatives as Earl Warren of California, Joe Martin of Massachusetts, Francis Myers of Pennsylvania, Wayne Morse of Oregon, Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, Ellis Arnall of Georgia, Horace Hildreth of Maine, Frank J. Lausche of Ohio and Mon C. Walgren of Washington.

And, as might be expected, many of the men who now publish and manage the nation's newspapers and news services got their start as boy-salesmen. Just a few are Seymour Berkson, general manager of International News Service; Roy Howard, of Scripps-Howard Newspapers; and Roy Roberts, editor of the Kansas City Star.

Claims Discovery Of Way To Block Polio Development

LIMA, O., March 24.—(INS)—Dr. George J. Roberts, 35-year-old Westminister, O., physician, claims to have found a way "to block infantile paralysis."

The doctor, although refusing to discuss his discovery, told newsmen yesterday that use of his "find" during the coming warm months will determine conclusively "if I am right or not."

He said he has filed a paper on his study of poliomyelitis with the library of congress. He added he soon will reveal his findings to the remainder of the world.

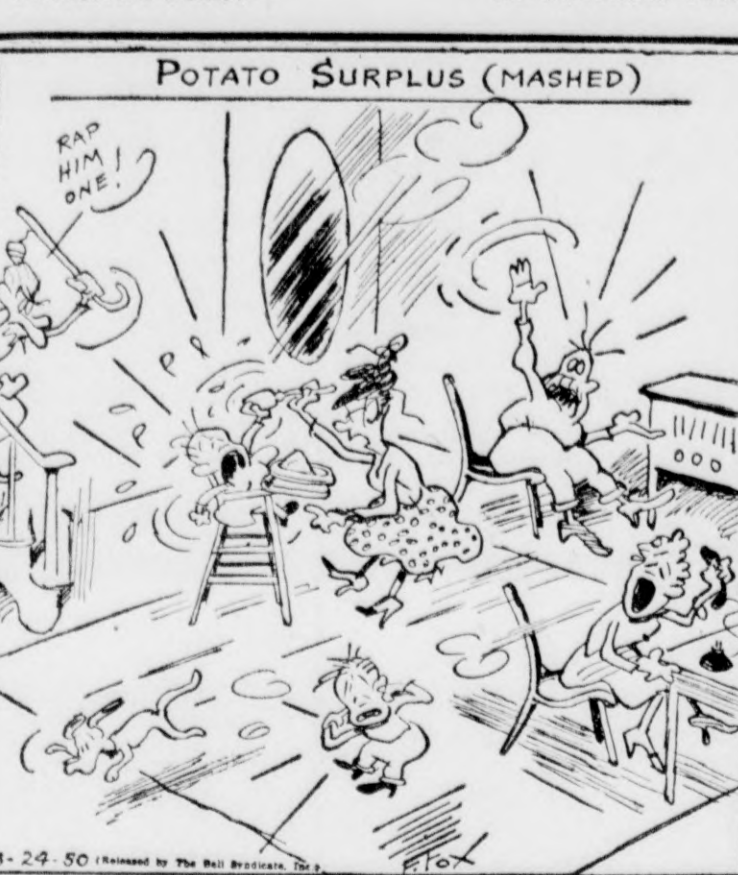

Dr. Roberts has spent 57 years in the medical profession, 43 of them in Westminister, a community of less than 500 population.

FIRST COCKTAIL
NEW YORK.—(INS)—American Revolution lore has it that the "cocktail" first appeared in 1779 in a Yorktown tavern frequented by patriots when hostess Betsy Flanagan decorated each bottle of her famous "rum bracer" with tail feathers plucked from chickens owned by a Tory neighbor.

A French officer reportedly raised his glass with the toast: "Vive le coq's tail"—and that's how it started!

Around Hollywood

By FRANK NEILL
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, March 24.—Dagwood would have grimaced in mortal agony.

Blondie, instead of eating a quadruple-decker sandwich, was calmly nibbling at a crumpet while she balanced a cup of tea on one dimpled knee.

Penny Singleton, the blonde cutie who loves Shakespeare but who is forever destined to be known as "Blondie," remarked that she does not particularly care for sandwiches.

"Especially," said the blue-eyed actress, "I don't like sandwiches of the kind Dagwood manufactures in our pictures and the comic strip."

Blondie's name is Mariana Mc-

Nulty but she hoofed and emoted in Broadway musical comedies as Dorothy McNulty before Hollywood latched on to her and changed her name to Penny Singleton.

She recently returned to Hollywood from a personal appearance tour through the east and midwest, where she spent most of her time visiting veterans' and children's hospitals.

"It gave me more satisfaction," she said today, "than anything I've done for years. More Hollywood stars should get out around the country. I'm going out again, on a longer trip, in a few weeks."

Between sips of tea, Blondie let loose with additional data from around the corner of a crumpet:

Her father was a newspaperman in Philadelphia, where Mariana or Dorothy or Penny or Blondie made her stage debut at the age of eight.

Youngest Dancer
Less than six years later, when she was appearing in a road show, J. J. Shubert signed her for a New York winter garden review which made her the youngest dancer ever featured on Broadway.

Serious dramatic work followed. Then Hollywood beckoned. Columbia studios interviewed a couple of hundred girls to portray "Blondie" on the screen.

Mariana or Dorothy or Penny actually is a natural brunette, but the Irish doll dyed her locks, copied the coveted part and in the past eight years has been Blondie in 16 movies and hundreds of radio shows.

Penny is married to studio executive Robert Sparks. They have two daughters.

IN HOSPITAL

The condition of Mrs. Joseph Montozzi, a patient in the Ellwood City hospital, where she was taken following an automobile accident, remains about the same.

Mr. and Mrs. Montozzi were returning home from Pittsburgh where they had visited with the latter's brother, Carmen Leopardo, a patient in the Allegheny hospital, when the accident occurred.

As the car approached the Stamm Hill just out of Ellwood City on the Zelenople road, Mr. Montozzi appeared to have lost control of the machine and it skidded on to the barn where it overturned.

Mr. Montozzi who was also hospitalized following the accident was discharged from the hospital Wednesday and is convalescing at his home here.

Entertainment for the evening included piano selections by Miss Barbara Baltzell; vocal solos by Miss Alice Riddle; readings by Miss Peggy Latham, all of Geneva college; a talk by Harold I. Marshall, who related some of the team's activities during the season and group singing.

Mrs. Charles Shearer was in charge of the dinner and Mrs. Robert McMichael arranged the program.

Merit System For Health Department Of State Advocated

HARRISBURG, March 24.—(INS)—Improvement of the public health program depends upon establishment of the merit employment system in the State Health department, the Pennsylvania Medical society's secretaries and editors were advised today.

Dr. George S. Klump of Williamsport, chairman of the society's board of trustees, told delegates to the 38th annual meeting at Harrisburg that politics in job appointments cause a feeling of insecurity among workers which is reflected in their work.

No matter whether Democrats or Republicans are in power, he said, any person selected from the state civil service list must win political sponsorship.

"It is necessary that our political leaders appreciate the value of a well-rounded efficiently administered public health program and then use their power to implement it," Klump declared. "At this time there is nothing to suggest any great enthusiasm on the part of the politicians of either major party for such an enlightened approach. Of the 13 major industrial states, Pennsylvania is the only one without state-wide merit system coverage."

"It is part of our job to demonstrate that enlightened politics or statesmanship can be smart politics," said Klump. "When the people know the truth they will see to it that their health interests are served. This is their case as well as ours—even more than ours—so let us tell them the story. Once it is understood by the people there can be no doubt regarding bi-partisan sponsorship for an honest merit system."

Criticism Of Morals Of Movieland Upheld Says Senator Johnson

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(INS)—Sen. Johnson, (D) Colo., said today he has been snowed under by letters and telegrams which support his criticism of movieland morals ten to one.

The Senate Commerce committee chairman declared that although he is still awaiting Hollywood's reply to his suggestion that the movie industry draw up a plan of "self-discipline," the public has been anything but reluctant to comment.

Last week in a bitter Senate speech Johnson attacked Ingrid Bergman, Robert Rossellini and the "mad dogs" of the movie industry.

He declared that about 5,000 letters and telegrams have come to his office on the subject, and that they are about "ten to one" in support of his criticism of movieland morals in general and the "Stromboli" affair in particular.

Tadpole Coofties Meet On Thursday

Tadpole Coofties, No. 364, met Thursday evening in the V. F. W. post rooms, East Washington street, with Chief Grayback Gertrude Frederick presiding.

A short business meeting was held and plans for a special event discussed. After the meeting a party was held in honor of Past Chief Grayback Ethel Stebbins.

Cards and games were played and lunch was served. The committee was composed of Mrs. Hermine Rook and Mrs. Mina Rodgers. Mrs. Stebbins was presented with an officer's pin and gift.

The next regular meeting will be held April 27.

Sees Need For More American Capitalists

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 24 (INS)—A prominent industrialist says the trouble with capitalism is that "there just aren't enough Americans who believe in it."

Gwilym A. Price, president of the Westinghouse Corp., told the Springfield Chamber of Commerce that "the job of creating capitalists is one of the most important that American business management faces today."

He suggested giving the employee a stake in business "by means of outright profit sharing."

Two More Report Seeing Flying Saucers

LOS ANGELES, March 24.—(INS)—Two air force sergeants and a trained aircraft observer today joined that fraternity of persons who "positively" have seen flying saucers.

Sigs. Bob O'Hara, 21, and Bill Elder 25, said they saw a huge sky monster flying for nearly two hours over the mountain resort of Idyllwild, 70 miles east of Los Angeles. O'Hara declared:

"Bill and I both have 20-20 vision and believe me, we hadn't been drinking." To which Elder added:

"It was up there, all right. It must have been at least 40,000 feet over us, whirling slowly toward the south. It was like a big, thick pancake with a fin on one side."

Dudley Gourley, 26, an army aircraft observer for three years, said he saw no less than eight saucers moving slowly out to sea as he drove past El Moro Bay along the Pacific coast highway. He said:

"I was an air observer for 14 months during the war and a sea-coast air observer for 18 months. Let the air force laugh that off."

Bell Sworn In As State Court Justice

PHILADELPHIA, March 24.—(INS)—Former Gov. John C. Bell, Jr., today took his oath of office as a state supreme court justice in a brief ceremony at Philadelphia City Hall.

The new jurist's wife, Sara, and four of their five children, watched as the oath was administered by Supreme Court Justice William B. Linn.

All the other justices were present except James B. Drew. The latter assumed the post of chief justice by seniority last Monday upon the death of George W. Maxey.

Bell was appointed a justice on March 8 by Gov. James H. Duff.

NEW YORK — (INS) — High sensitive Geiger-counter tubes, used in devices for measuring radio activity, are now being packed in tin cans, the American Can company announced. Cookie sheets and order blanks for the sale of Girl Scout cookies were distributed. The scouts will start working on their cookie and nutrition badges Wednesday, April 5. Tentative plans were made for a party.

Smith Girls Study Culture In France

PARIS—(INS)—There's a little touch of New England in Old Paris these days. In the heart of Montparnasse 38 American coeds under the Smith college Junior-year-in-France Plan live, study and soak in French culture.

Under the guidance of Mlle. Jeanne Salein, professor of French literature at Smith, these girls have traded their ivied campus in Northampton, Mass. for the quaint, narrow streets of the Latin Quarter.

Although Reid hall, right off Boulevard Montparnasse, is their official home, half of the group at a time takes turns living with the French families. They all eat and are crazy about French cooking and speak French among themselves.

Reid hall organizes dances for them and invites French students. While they admitted that the Frenchman's "line" is much more "refined" than the American's, the girls claim that they still prefer American men.

"These Frenchmen sure do know how to make a girl feel nice though," sighed one co-ed who prefers to remain anonymous.

Whether living at Reid hall or with families the girls are allowed to stay out until 11 during the week and until 1 a.m. on the weekends. They are encouraged to date Frenchmen rather than Americans for the sake of their French.

The girls are avid theatre-goers, and they take in concerts, lectures and Paris's impressive monuments, museums and art galleries.

Their studies include French and comparative literature, art, sociology, political science, history, etc.

British Clowns Look For Union

LONDON—(INS)—Concerned at the influx of "amateurs" into their profession, ten of Britain's leading clowns met recently and decided to form an international clowns club that could issue special identity cards for clowns.

Object of the club will be to improve the standard of clowning, unite clowns, train aspirants and register original make-ups and properties.

Only clowns with talent and experience are to be admitted to the club for as one British clown explained:

"Too many people put on a costume and roll about the ring these days. Our members must have ability."

MILLION-STITCH RUG BY QUEEN MARY

Boar Hunts Man Now In Germany

OBERLINGEN (Germany)—(INS)—Man-hunting by wild boars instead of boar-hunting by man is a new postwar "turnabout" in German forests.

The 100 percent disarmament since the close of World War II, which also was extended to hunters, has reversed relations between civilized man and the wild beasts.

Recently a group of foresters in the neighborhood of Goppingen in the South West of Germany became the object of a mass attack by 20 wild boars in open daylight.

The woodsmen had just settled down for a short rest and snack, when the black beasts, led by a strong boar, suddenly pushed forward from a thicket where they apparently had hidden and prepared their assault.

The woodsmen, many of them obviously war-trained, quickly took refuge in improvised trenches and between piles of fallen trees. No one was hurt, but they had to hold out in their "forts" a long time before the "enemy" retreated.

In another case a single boar boldly strolled through the streets of the town of Stuttgart. It left the impression that it had an uncanny knowledge of man's unarmedness.

Only when many citizens had been alarmed and began an organized clatter of teapots, bells and other "instruments" did the visitor slowly retreat toward the forest.

In the Lake of Constance District wild boars pay so many visits to the borders of the lake that no private persons or tourists venture to leave the precincts of town and village very far.

The recently-announced "rearmament" of German hunters is expected to reverse the situation in favor of civilization.

Gettysburg To Get New Police Barracks

HARRISBURG, March 24.—(INS)—The General State Authority today invited bids April 19 for construction of a state police barracks and driver examining field at Gettysburg.

Plans call for the building and attached garage to be constructed on route 44. The building will house offices, living quarters and storage for eight vehicles.

State police now use rented quarters that are unfit for police work.

Postmen Deliver Checks Personally

PITTSBURGH, March 24.—(INS)—No one can say Pittsburgh postmen aren't doing their bit to see that bonus checks are safely delivered.

James C. Smith, Pittsburgh postmaster said carriers have received special orders to deliver the checks personally, or to return later when someone is at home.

Smith said such precautions are taken in almost all cases involving government checks.

MILK REPORT

ITHACA, N. Y.—(INS)—Milk production and consumption are greater in most European countries than ever before, Dr. Leland Spencer, professor of marketing at Cornell University, said recently.

The College of Agriculture staff member, who toured 11 European countries said the food situation is generally good in most countries of Western Europe except Germany, and in England, where the diet is "somewhat monotonous and unappetizing."

Argues Against Stage Hypnosis

LONDON—(INS)—Hypnotism exhibitions on the vaudeville stage can result in considerable mental harm and even death to the "victim," charges Dr. S. Van Pelt, president of the British Society of Medical Hypnotists.

"People hypnotized by stage performers who have no medical knowledge are known to have suffered from nervous breakdowns," said Dr. Pelt in the latest edition of the British Journal of Medical Hypnotism.

"Hypnosis demands the utmost care and attention on the part of the operator. In the rush and excitement of a stage performance the operator may forget to countermand suggestions, and so set up a serious neurosis in susceptible subjects," he stated.

Small Fire At Dry Cleaners

Four fire companies answered an alarm from Box 75, when fire was found in the rear room of the Mahoning Dry Cleaners at 14 1/2

West Cherry street, at 11:33 a.m. today. Damage of around $50 occurred. Fire Chief H. F. Steinbrink stated.

This was the third fire at the same location in the past month, firemen being summoned to the building twice on February 22.

It is believed that defective wiring was the cause of today's fire.

France Anticipates 1950 Tourist Boom

PARIS—Tourist Commissioner Henri Ingrand predicted that 1950 would bring a record inflow of tourists to France.

Ingrand said that with the help of "holy year" celebrations in Rome and a big advertising campaign in the United States, the number of foreign visitors this year was expected to reach at least 3,500,000.

In 1949 nearly 3,000,000 tourists brought France profits of more than 50 billion francs ($146,000,000) and Ingrand was anxious to increase this figure as much as possible in his drive to make catering to tourists the nations first export industry.

New Candidate For Governor

Lycoming County Judge Enters Race

HARRISBURG, March 24.—(INS)—The 1950 Republican primary campaign tempo was stepped up today by the Duff-Fine faction's search for a superior court candidate and the appearance of a new independent GOP gubernatorial hopeful, Lycoming County Judge Charles S. Williams.

A decision on the appellate court is slated to be made today by Gov. James H. Duff, candidate for the U. S. senatorial nomination, and his gubernatorial running mate, John S. Fine of Nanticoke.

Among Possibilities

Judge Blair F. Gunther of the Allegheny county court, and old time Public Service Commissioner Thomas J. Egan of Philadelphia moved into the forefront of court possibilities following a conference between Duff and Fine at the state capitol yesterday.

Philadelphia's Duff-Fine leaders are pushing Judge Eugene V. Alessandrini and assistant district attorney Americo V. Cortese. The governor is understood to lean toward Gunther but has not closed the door to the two Philadelphia candidates and has not ruled out Philadelphia attorney Edward Kelly and supreme court prothonotary Charles A. Waters.

The superior court vacancy was created by Fine's resignation to enter the gubernatorial race.

Pittsburgh Police Seek Mother Who Deserted Children

PITTSBURGH, March 24.—(INS)—Pittsburgh police were looking today for the mother of seven small children who they said "skipped" town with a relief check for nearly $200.

Police said the children, ranging in age from three months to seven years, were found in their home yesterday. Two of the children said to be suffering from pneumonia were rushed to Pittsburgh's Allegheny General hospital, and the other five were sent to a foundling home and to the juvenile court home.

Mrs. Marian Saunders, about 25, mother of the children, apparently went to join her husband, Luther Saunders, 26, who escaped from the Cambria county prison farm near Ebensburg Feb. 7, police believe.

Laundry bluing makes clothes white by neutralizing the yellow in them.

The first quarter of the year is generally a period of low production in American fisheries.

No Flood Danger In Pittsburgh Area

PITTSBURGH, March 24.—(INS)—Barring unexpected rains, weather forecasters said there is little danger of a flood hitting the Pittsburgh area.

Quick melting of the year's heaviest snow yesterday prompted a fear that Pittsburgh rivers might rise dangerously. But the weather bureau said there would be only a slight rise at the point today.

More rain expected tonight and additional run-off of melting snow was expected to bring a second rise tomorrow, but the crest is not expected to go above 17½ feet, or well below the 25-foot flood stage. From six to eight inches of snow covered the western Pennsylvania countryside yesterday, and the fall measured from 12 to 14 inches in some mountain areas.

Many small communities were hit with power failures. Train and bus travel was delayed from 30 minutes to three hours.

Local Man Gets Patent

On March 7, 1950, the United States Patent Office granted patent number 2,499,999 on a "cement clinker apparatus" to Haavard Kronstad, Mahoningtown, Pa.

Cement may be described as a material, generally in powdered form, that may be made into a paste by the addition of water and, when molded or poured, will set into a solid mass. In its manufacture the raw ingredients (usually high-calcium limestone and clay) are ground and mixed in grinding mills and then made into a slurry. Thereupon, the latter composition is passed through a kiln where it is subjected to high heat and converted into clinker, and while in such form it is conveyed to grinding mills which transform it to a very fine powder ready for use.

However, this slurry, as it comes from its source of supply, contains a large proportion of water, and it therefore is desirable to reduce its water content before introducing it into the kiln. Thus, Mr. Kronstad has devised an improved and compact apparatus for accomplishing this end.

Basically, it may be said that he makes use of a special drying chamber through which the slurry proceeds upon a moving conveyor belt while being heated by gases from the kiln. It should be noted that means are provided for the slurry to by-pass the drier and enter the kiln directly from the feed source, particularly at the start of operations when the apparatus is cold. Moreover, as may be expected, Mr. Kronstad sets up suitable controls for regulating the temperature in the drier, the flow of gases and the movement of the raw material; and in addition he solves the problem of the slurry adhering to the discharge end of the conveyor belt by the use of a compressed air mechanism.

The application for this patent, which consists of 17 claims of originality, was filed on July 31, 1944.

Try And Stop Me

Vladimir Gomułka, the "Polish Tito," is the undisputed hero of the dogged anti-Communist faction left in Warsaw. A current story in Poland describes Gomułka's last visit to the Kremlin, where Stalin staged a great banquet in his honor. After eight hours of reveling and gorging, Gomułka said, "Thanks a lot for the tea."

Stalin, piqued by what he considered rank ingratitude, exploded. "I serve you caviar, champagne, the finest meats and pastries—and you—thank me for tea! How come?" The imperturbable Gomułka pointed out, "Everything else was ours."

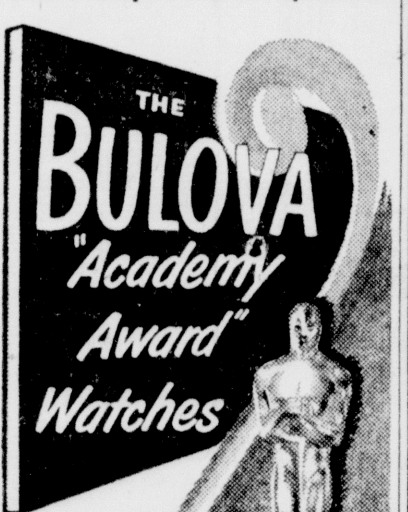

Alexander Woolcott once showed up at a Long Island weekend party with a Chinese flunkey named Thomas. His hostess was convinced that Woolcott did it just so he could refer casually to his "Peiping Tom."

Lawrence Leeds, the gentleman farmer from New Jersey, claims one of his cows is being psycho-analyzed. It seems she is suffering from a fodder complex.

DRIVE IN

Tourists drive around over the country. They are usually pretty careful to stay out of private property until they see a "Drive In" sign.

The radio is something like a public highway. There are all sorts of tourists on it. They drive right into your home whether you want them or not.

Some of the ads mess your place up a little. You do not like the rubbish but there does not seem to be much that you can do about it.

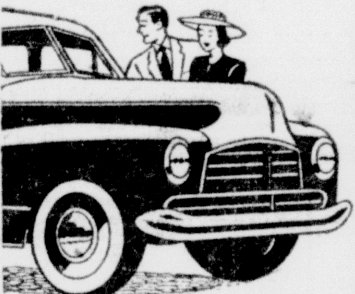

The health department tries to keep the city clean and free from rubbish. The milk and water are kept free of poison.

Maybe some day there will be a way to keep poison away from our minds too.

Add extra cold boiled rice to crab meat salad. Not only will the salad taste delicious but it will stretch farther. Rice may be added to many salads. Egg and rice salad is particularly good.

New King Is Given Welcome At Bangkok

By S. W. SANDERS

(U.S. Staff Correspondent)
BANGKOK, Thailand, March 24.—A new king was welcomed today in the eastern land of Thailand when Rama the Ninth disembarked at Bangkok amid the pealing of bells in 183 Buddhist temples.

The king, Phumiphon Adulyadej, a lover of jazz music who has visited his homeland only once in the last decade, returned to Thailand to take the throne in place of a brother who died in a mysterious palace shooting almost four years ago.

The Boston-born Phumiphon came back to the fabled land of intrigue, known more familiarly as Siam, from school in Switzerland.

The 22-year-old Phumiphon actually became king in Absentia following the death of his elder brother, Ananda Mahidol, who died at the age of 20 on June 9, 1946.

He will attend the cremation of the remains of his brother and be crowned and married. Then, after a short stay, he will return to school in Switzerland.

NEW YORK, March 24.—(INS)—Denise Dancel, French movie actress known as one of Hollywood's chief exponents of the low-cut gown, was reported today to be planning to marry Texas oilman Peter Crosby.

Miss Dancel, daughter of a Parisian bakeryman, appeared as the only girl in the cast of the picture "Battleground." In a recent interview, when asked about her penchant for plunging necklines, she explained:

"I am a woman. No? If I have pretty legs, I wear short skirts. So."

Beating Up Defenseless Men

NEW YORK, March 24.—Dear me, I do wish we girls would quit beating up defenseless men in public and get back to being womanly women.

If you ask me, it gives our sex a bad name when impulsive ladies like Virginia Hill, cher amie of the late Mr. Bugsy Siegal, the Hollywood gangster, get into a pet and beat up three gentlemen photographers, as she did recently in Chicago.

A good man is certainly hard to find circa 1950, and if he has a lick of sense he will head even deeper into the tall timber once he is convinced that the hand that rocks the cradle also rocks a welterweight from time to time, just for practice.

How To Stay Happy

Every newspaper worth the name today carries a daily column of free-wheeling advice on how to stay happy though married. There is, however, one slight gimmick the literary Doc Anthonys have overlooked: a girl has to get married before she can stay married.

Men are jittery enough about matrimony, as it is. It gets harder and harder all the time to wring "I do" from them. For years, we women have been warned not to let men know that we can out-think them, but I think it is even more deadly to let them get the idea that we can out-slug them.

When I was in college, it would have been fatal to any prom girl to be caught in public with a Phi Beta Kappa key or a copy of "The Atlantic Monthly." Such intimations of intellectuality would have elected her Miss Wallflower of Old Swash within 24 hours.

Eugene O'Neill in "Marco Millions" caused Marco Polo to voice one of the great truths of the ages when he said in regard the opposite sex: "No man wants a heavy thinker around the house."

Doesn't Want Heavy Hitter

Even less does he want a heavy hitter. The male ego will shrivel and die forever on the day some poor guy realizes he is not only being out-thought but out-fought in his own home. Grandma always said you can catch more flies with molasses than vinegar and I feel certain men are still more susceptible to a line of sweet talk than to ju-jitsu.

So if a girl feels the need to lower the boom, she ought to do it in private for the sake of the rest of her sex. It does us no good to have men read that a beautiful New York model, as reported in the paper, tossed a jigger of whiskey in the face of a gent at the next table in a chic restaurant. She resented his rude remarks about her esc-rt.

In the first place, good whiskey is too expensive to be tossed around willy-nilly and, in the second place, the lady at least should have been sufficiently courteous to permit her escort to get his dander up in his own behalf.

First on the Draw

But no, this impetuous dame has to be first on the draw, thereby pasting yet another shiner on frail womanhood. Nor is this all: the same paper reports that a lady night-club singer subdued a heckler with her own fists before the bouncer could attend to the job—or, for that matter—protect the paying customer from general assault and battery.

Ladies, ladies! Come to order! In the first place, never raise your hand to a man and, in case of a night club fight, retire at once to the nearest neutral corner and stay there!

Let two or three more innocent men get beat up by women and Mr. Right will come a-courting equipped with a buggy whip and a kitchen chair, just in case Lady Gwendolyn wants to flex her muscles.

Girls I warn you: a man in the clinches won't have his heart in his work if at the same time he has to worry about possible rabbit punches.

And I, for one, do not look forward to the day when it is a toss-up who carries whom over the threshold.

If you can't get a man with a gun, ladies, it's a foregone conclusion he won't be any easier to kayo with a right to the jaw.

CHOOSE YOUR DRESS FABRICS CAREFULLY

Your new dress you plan to make for the first spring day can be a proud success or a sorry failure, depending on the fabric you select. The fabric must be right for you, your coloring, your figure, and for your choice of pattern. The right fabric will add distinction to the simplest dress.

Among the wide variety of stripes, checks, prints, plaids, and textured materials that beckon to you from the counter, take time to choose the one that best suits you and your pattern.

When choosing a fabric, a few points to consider are:

1. Does the fabric suit the style of the garment? Some materials lend themselves to styling details better than others. If there are pleats in the pattern, select firmly woven, fairly crisp material. A soft, loosely woven fabric is not suitable for pleats.

For soft draped effects, choose materials which will fall in graceful folds. If you wish to emphasize unusual line or intricate details of a pattern, choose plain colors instead of printed patterns.

2. Is the fabric becoming? The fabric you buy should be suited to the use or wear for which it is chosen. Study the labels for facts on shrinkage, colorfastness, special finishes and recommended care. Much information is contained on the labels, and this should be considered an important guide in selecting of fabrics.

MILK IS EXCELLENT BUY AT ANY PRICE

Milk is a good buy at any price when you consider its many food values. For its calcium content alone it would be a bargain.

Calcium is essential to keep the body functioning properly at all times. Besides building good teeth and bones, it helps keep the heart beating properly, keeps nerves stable, and helps clotting the blood.

The daily requirement for calcium is one gram a day for adults. Three glasses of milk each day will supply this need. Cheese is also a good source of calcium, but few other foods supply calcium in any quantity. Dark green leafy vegetables are the next best source of calcium, but a person would need to eat many servings of these vegetables every day.

Milk is noted for other food values as well as calcium. It is a good source of protein, needed to build repair tissues, and of vitamin A, thiamin, and riboflavin. These vitamins build up resistance to infections, help utilize food properly, and keep the skin in healthy condition. Because of this wealth of health-giving food values, milk can help to keep everyone youthful and vigorous.

Many people consider milk as a beverage. However, its place in the diet can never be taken by coffee, tea, or any other beverage. Consider it a food and serve it in addition to other drinks, or use it plentifully in cooked foods. Any form of milk—whole, dried, evaporated, skimmed, or buttermilk may be used in cooking. Because of its high calcium content, include cheese often on the menu, either plain or in combination with other foods.

Home Nursing Course Will Begin Tuesday

Another home nursing course offered by the Lawrence County Chapter of the American Red Cross in conjunction with the New Castle public school department will begin Tuesday, March 28, at the Senior high school.

The course is for 24 hours and will be given on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30. Miss Helen Venditto will be the instructor.

The course will be broken up into two units—first 12 hours consist of "Home Care for the Sick" and the second 12, "Mother and Baby Care." Each unit will remain separate and persons may take one without taking the other.

Enrollment in the class is limited and persons interested should contact the Red Cross office immediately.

TRAGIC DIAGNOSIS

TULARE, Cal.—(INS)—Thirty-two-year-old Herman Comer of Lindsay thought he had beaten his wife so badly she was dead. Comer, overcome by remorse threw himself under the wheels of a passing automobile and died in a Tulare hospital from his injuries. Then Mrs. Comer recovered and was treated for minor injuries.

Local Residents Hear From Nephew

Mr. and Mrs. Sam DiBiase, of 1027 South Mill street, have received a letter from their nephew, Rev. Fr. Raphael Testitore, a missionary priest who is stationed at a Catholic mission in Sudan, Africa. He has been at the mission for four years.

The local residents have not heard from Fr. Testitore for many years, and were quite thrilled at having heard from him, after this long silence.

Father Testitore states that among his priestly duties he has charge of over 200 school boys, many of whom are illiterate and have had no schooling.

His work also extends to hundreds of uncivilized people. There is poverty everywhere in the country, he writes. The wants of the people are many, and Father Testitore is kept very busy in that torrid, equatorial country.

Father Testitore is from Italy. His parents, and three sisters survive in Italy.

Second Much Wanted Man Is Captured

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(INS)—The FBI announced today that Orba Elmer Jackson, second of the nation's "ten most wanted" criminals to be captured as a result of an International News Service series, has been apprehended at Aloha, Ore.

Jackson, an escapee from the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., was captured by FBI special agents through the cooperation of a civic-spirited citizen who identified the fugitive from an INS story in the Portland (Ore.) Oregonian.

William Raymond Nesbit, also an escaped convict, was captured last Saturday at St. Paul, Minn., through information supplied by two teen-age boys who recognized him from an INS article in the St. Paul Dispatch.

The name of the citizen who effected Jackson's apprehension is being withheld at his own request.

Service En Route Back To U.S. To Defend Self Against Charges

YOKOHAMA, March 24.—(INS)—John S. Service, American diplomatic officer, arrived in Yokohama today, en route back to Washington, D. C., to defend himself against charges by Sen. McCarthy (R. Wis.), that he was a Communist "collaborator" and a "bad security risk."

Stepping ashore from the motorship Island Mail, Service declared: "One thing I would like to say is that I am not and never have been a Communist or pro-Communist or fellow-traveler."

"I have always been a loyal officer of the American government and welcome this opportunity to return to the United States and satisfy any doubts on these or any other matters."

"I am confident I will be cleared of these charges once and for all. I want to clear my name and get rid of all these charges."

Police Clinic Will Start In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, March 24.—(INS)—Pittsburgh District Attorney William S. Rahauer and the FBI soon will conduct an intensive 10-week school in scientific crime detection in Pittsburgh.

City and county detectives, policemen and other law enforcement officers will attend the school.

Rahauer said that ineffective police work sometimes hampers effective prosecution, and that the school will serve as a clinic where actual cases in Allegheny county will be taken apart and criticized.

Influenza Cases In Nation May Exceed Record Since 1946

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(INS)—The government reported today that the number of influenza cases throughout the nation this year may establish a new five-year record.

The Public Health Service said that the number of new cases last week totaled nearly 30,000 or about 2,000 more than the previous week—raising the total for the year to 145,000 cases.

This total now stands only slightly below the 170,000 cases which occurred in 1946, the largest number during the past five years.

Despite the widespread prevalence of the disease, government doctors reported that few deaths in major cities have been caused by influenza.

Juniors Hear Planning Tips

Slippery Rock Prof
High School Speaker

Juniors at New Castle Senior High school received some valuable pointers on planning their future Thursday from Dr. Orville C. Wrigley.

Dr. Wrigley is a professor of psychology and education at Slippery Rock State Teachers College. He told the interested juniors that now as the time for them to start planning their lives if they haven't already started. He said that any society accepted job is at right. There must be laborers as well as doctors and lawyers and a student should pick out the thing he likes to do and can do best.

A word of advice to the girls was to plan and train for a profession. A woman never knows when she will be forced to leave a home and seek employment. She should be trained to do a job.

Pick Good School
Dr. Wrigley stressed the importance of picking a college. He said that there are many different kinds and the placement record of the school plus its outlook and the mark that it leaves on its graduates is very important in future life.

Other interesting pointers were: A student's high school background is very important. Emotional stability is necessary. It is not inherited and it can be developed.

It is very helpful to cultivate acquaintances with persons who may help you in later life. Those students with high IQ's should not be self-satisfied. They must also apply themselves and do good work at all times.

There is a 50 per cent drop out in college between the freshmen year and graduation.

Ability, can overcome economic handicaps.

Pick out a path to follow. If it is a good one stick to it. Don't change projects when one is only partially completed.

Housing Authorities
Work Redevelopment

CHICAGO—(INS)—The national association of housing officials reported recently that less than 25 cities have separate redevelopment agencies set up to administer slum clearance under the housing act of 1949.

The association noted that in a recent survey about 70 per cent of local agencies for redevelopment are housing authorities.

Under the terms of the housing act, a redevelopment plan must be submitted to the housing and home finance agency by the community desiring funds for slum clearance.

The act does not establish a fund specifically for the setting-up of local authorities to administer regional programs and provides that the local agency contribute at least one-third of the federal grant.

The association warned that communities which combine the operations of a housing authority with those of a redevelopment body are liable to encounter considerable administrative difficulties.

It is noted that many different ways of obtaining funds for the establishment of local redevelopment authorities have been put into effect by various cities.

Minneapolis, for example, appropriated $25,000 to get the program underway, then levied a special tax to finance the clearance projects. The advance financing was to be repaid when the tax levies were taken in.

White Squirrels Bring Town Fame

OLNEY, Ill.—(INS)—Olney, a town in southern Illinois, is proud of its growing fame as "the home of the white squirrel."

The town's beautiful tree-lined residential streets around in the albino bushytails, and Olneyites claim their city is the only one in America populated with the chattering, pink-eyed nutcrackers.

In fact, the white squirrels are becoming as important to Olney as the sacred white cow is to India, and anyone caught molesting or trapping the animals is liable to land in jail.

The Chamber of Commerce seized upon the habitation of the white squirrels to gain some publicity and now distributes decorative windshield stickers featuring the creatures.

Big Campaign

Recently, a garage and showroom opposite the fair grounds advertised the animals in blazing neon lights.

Wilbur Forsythe, lumberman, mounted a white squirrel weather-vane on his home in place of the usual rooster. Even post cards featuring the animals are for sale in the drug stores.

Red and gray squirrels also abound in Olney, but the albinos still outnumber the others and they are gaining rapidly.

Old residents said that the white squirrels date back to 1902 when hunters shot two of them out of the tree on the Ezra Stroup farm, five miles southeast of town.

The albinos were exhibited in the town, but some residents protested their being cooped up and they were released in a grove on the city limits.

Since then the white squirrels have multiplied rapidly and gradually spread over the town.

Numerous pairs have been sent to other cities as far away as Texas but for some unexplained reasons they all failed to survive.

The white squirrels are tame and behave much like their darker cousins. Veterinarians said that the white squirrels are the result of cross-breeding and that white dominates among the off-spring of mixed parents.

SCOLDS GALS

LONDON, (INS)—Women are imitating men in a way "disastrous to themselves, society, and the Kingdom of God," according to the Rev. Alec Miller Stephens, bachelor vicar of Birtley, Durham county, Rev. Stephens told his 12,000 parishioners in a parish letter that women "pass us in the street with their hard, unlively faces, aping men's dress and habits."

The purchase of about 61 per cent of men's clothing is influenced by women.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

MARRIAGE COUNSELLING

Almost everyone agrees that marriages are not as stable and lasting as they used to be. We disagree as to the causes. Some feel that the moral fibre of the men and women involved is weaker than was that of their grandparents. Others believe that the fault lies in less strong religious beliefs than our forefathers had. Few would deny that conditions of living today, the greater variety in ways of looking at life play a major part.

Whatever the causes, the fact is that the adjustment problem in marriage are of the sort that make it wise for us to accept the desirability of help in working through some of the misunderstandings and conflicts that arise. Many a potentially sound marriage could have been saved had the couple been willing to talk things through with a marriage counselor, experienced in ways of helping people look at their problems constructively.

More and more ministers, lawyers, doctors, social workers and educators have been preparing themselves through experience and study to be of help to husbands and wives who find it difficult to work out their conflicts satisfactorily.

There's no magic about their approach. Essentially, as a third party, emotionally uninvolved in the couple's relationship, they are able to bring information and perspective that often helps people resolve their difficulties.

JOURNEY'S END

LONDON.—(INS)—Portsmouth Football Club will not go to Argentina this summer. They have abandoned the proposed tour because it has been impossible to make arrangements to cover the journey. Directors of the club state that letters to Argentina have been ignored.

New Church Planned For State Historic Site

HARRISBURG.—With Mooreburg residents providing most of the labor, a $15,000 church building will be erected on the site of the historically notable Chillisquaque Presbyterian church, between the Danville-Milton and Danville-Lewisburg roads, the State Department of Commerce vacation and recreation bureau announces.

On July 29, 1779, the original church of wooden logs was destroyed by the Shawnee Indians at the crossroads near Montour Ridge. The present Mooreburg church was built in 1830.

In replacing the 120-year-old landmark the people of Mooreburg will not only contribute manual labor, but financial resources as well. The have instigated numerous projects to help defray the cost of the building.

MORE STEEL

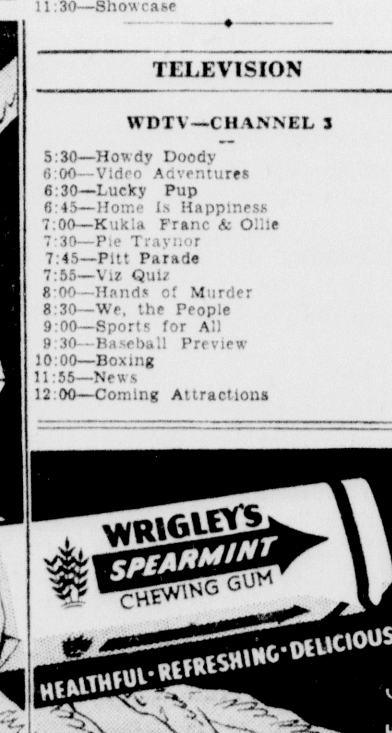

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—(INS)—Mechanization is on the way for the war-weakened French steel industry. Westinghouse is building $9,500,000 worth of electrical equipment to help bolster it. Order for the equipment was placed by SOLLAC, a privately owned association of nine French steel firms.

Bonfire was originally a fire of bones—a funeral pyre.

More Women Than Men In United States

For the first time in the country's history, women are outnumbering men, according to estimates made by the United States Bureau of the Census. The 1950 census of population to be conducted next April may reveal a feminine majority of roughly one million among the more than 150,000,000 people who will be counted.

In addition, says the bureau, women are living longer and holding more and better jobs than ever before.

Men Led Until 1930

Until 1930 the men maintained a comfortable margin of from 102 to 106 for every 100 women in the nation. The 1940 census revealed an almost even-Steven ratio, with the men retaining a slight edge of seven-tenths of one per cent. However, halfway between the 1940 and 1950 census the balance shifted. Allowing for armed forces overseas, the sex ratio—sociological term for number of males per 100 females—became 99.6.

According to population specialists there are two main reasons for the decline in the relative number of American males. Immigration, which was predominantly masculine, has been restricted in recent years.

Male Death Rate High

The second reason is the relatively high death rate for males. In 1940 it exceeded the female death rate in every age group from the cradle on.

A decline in the propagation of males is likely to continue, according to the census bureau; but it will be a gradual one and need not alarm anyone. Since the decline would be limited mainly to older groups it would not seriously affect women's marriage prospects.

TEAR GAS BREAKS UP RIOT AT TURIN, ITALY

TURIN, ITALY—Communists and Red sympathizers rush for cover as Turin's mobile police, using their vehicle, (left) as roadblock against truck filled with Reds, employ tear gas to break up riot started in front of neofascist party headquarters. Red workers from industrial sectors smashed furniture and burned documents in rightist party building before police arrived. Communist-inspired strikes broke out Monday in wake of rallies protesting against new public security measures.

Youth Arrested At Zelenople On Holdup Charge

ZELIENOPLE, March 24—Career of crime chosen by Alexander M. Garrett, aged 21, of New Wilmington R. D. 2, ended here less than four hours after a holdup in Jamestown, Pa., Wednesday, state police report.

The youth is reported as having walked into Jack's restaurant in Jamestown, pointing a gun at the proprietor, Mrs. John M. Ford, forcing her to surrender $55.21 from the cash till.

Three hours later state police spotted the young man on the Perry highway near Zelenople and chased him down a dead end street, it is stated.

The car Garrett was driving was stolen from Mrs. James Fuhey of New Castle two weeks ago, police say. He was turned over to Mercer county authorities for a court hearing.

State Retains Lead In Ice Cream Output

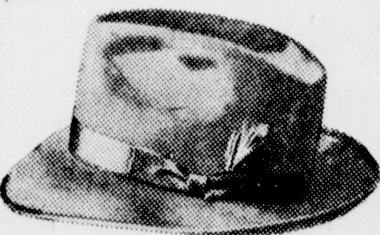

HARRISBURG—January was a big month for ice cream production in Pennsylvania, the State Department of Agriculture says.

The 4,000,000 gallons turned out gave the state ice cream manufacturers a lead of more than half a million gallons over New York and easily maintained the Keystone state's ranking as the No. 1 ice cream state in the nation.

Ice cream production for the first month of 1950 in Pennsylvania was four per cent higher than December, 5 per cent above January 1949, and 17 per cent above the 1944-48 average of about 3,500,000 gallons, according to federal-state surveys.

Shenango Juniors Begin Rehearsal On Annual Play

Members of the junior class of Shenango high school have selected "Red Hot Peppers" by R. Edmond as their presentation for the current year. This comedy will be presented in the school gymnasium on Friday evening April 14, at 8 o'clock.

The play depicts the troubles of a talented family named Pepper. Joan is a writer of mystery novels, Valerie is a sculptor, Daryl is a radio announcer, Hal is a young doctor, and Mary is the unaccomplished one.

Mary, acted by Helen Gurgacz, is the successful suitor for the titled Duc DeMalve, played by Wilbur Book. Valerie, Joella Amadei, has a difficult time evading Jerry Minton, played by Lloyd Houk. The harassed household servants find that life with the Peppers is never routine. Cast as the unfortunate domestics are Russell Mantzer, Ann Kitzko, and Alice Nagy. The writer, Joan, portrayed by Dorothy Draner finds the solution to the family's troubles with the aid of her two career-minded brothers, played by Joe Parco and Marion Adamcyk.

If past performances are any criterion, this play will prove to be a howling success. Recent audiences have found the class play at Shenango amusing and the cast extremely talented. This group is trying hard to continue the precedent set by the former players. The play is directed by Anthony Venturella, a faculty member.

La Starza And Marciano, Heavyweight Contenders Battle Tonight

Winner May Be Given Bout With "Ez" Charles

NEW YORK, March 24.—Madison Square Garden happily expects its best gate of the year tonight when those two unbeaten heavyweight tyros, Roland La Starza and Rocky Marciano, go after each other in the ten-round main bout.

Officials in the International Boxing Club foresaw today a 14,000 crowd and a $75,000 gross at $10 top. If that much materializes, an assist can be credited to Joe Louis, who is one of the directors of the IBC. He has thoughtfully held up what undoubtedly is his comeback announcement until Marciano and La Starza have done with each other.

Winner May Meet Charles

Meanwhile, Ezzard Charles, the champion pro tem, says through his manager Jake Mintz that a firm win for either La Starza or Marciano might make for a title bout in June.

All this is calculated to flick the searchlight of importance on Marciano and La Starza, and to help produce money at the gate.

The unusual thing is that it might not all be hokum. La Starza, at 23, has won 37 straight fights, and Marciano, at 26, also is undefeated. Betting on the fight is utterly pick-me at this point. La Starza opened as the local and sentimental favorite, but his Brooklyn, Mass., opponent seems to hit harder.

Marciano Best Record

Tonight's principals have had four opponents in common, and Marciano shows as the more fearsome fellow as a result of such an inconclusive peek.

La Starza twice decided Don Mogard; Marciano did it once. La Starza kayoed Harry Haft in four rounds in three. La Starza decided Jimmy Evans, and Marciano finished Evans in three rounds.

La Starza, who is a butcher in the Bronx, will hold a weight advantage of about five pounds—189 to 184. His 37-bout winning streak also is the longest any heavyweight ever has compiled before a title shot.

Baseball Advances In Korean League

WICHITA, Kans.—(INS)—Baseball is continuing its rapid expansion throughout the Far East, according to reports received by the National Baseball Congress.

Latest indication was the receipt of organizational charts from the Korean National Baseball Association which certified 69 teams to compete in its leagues this season.

Baseball was introduced to Koreans in 1903 by the Rev. G. L. Gillet, secretary-general for the Korean Y.M.C.A., and the game received impetus from the U. S. occupation of South Korea.

Final contracts for the international series in Tokyo will be signed there by Global Commissioner, J. G. Taylor Spink of St. Louis in April.

Rocco Viggiano Re-Elected City Softball Head

Eight Teams Entered In League For 1950 Season; Fields Set

Rocco Viggiano was re-elected president of the City softball league by his tenth term at a meeting of the league in the new City Building Thursday evening.

Other officers elected at the meeting were: Carmen Benincase, vice president; Nick George, secretary; Fred Marcella, treasurer.

The league will lineup with eight members—DeCarbos, Eagles, Blackhaws, Scotts, Hanks, Shamrocks, Moose and Allen and Huston. It was voted by the managers to limit the league to eight teams.

It was also announced at the meeting by the committee on playing fields, that Dean Park, Gaston Park, Lehigh field, Rose Avenue field and Cascade field will be available for play.

League games will be played on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, starting at 6:15, it was announced. The season will start the first week in May.

Official Ball Managers voted on the Rawlings 312 and MacGregor-Goldsmith 100 as the official balls for the 1950 season.

Rules and by-laws of the league were read, revised and passed. Most of the regulations remain the same as in the past with minor variations.

It was also voted that the teams submit their umpire money to the league treasurer at the beginning of the week and that the umpire be paid weekly instead of at each game.

Commissioners were nominated at the meeting and will be selected at a later date.

Another meeting of the league will be held before the season opens and will be announced later.

Dauthuille-Affif To Fight April 3rd

PITTSBURGH, March 24.—(INS)—French middleweight Laurent Dauthuille will meet Pittsburgh's Charley Affif in the 10-round main event at the Gardens Pittsburgh April 3, the Rooney-McGinley company said.

The 26-year-old Frenchman jumped to prominence last year when he decided Jake LaMotta in Montreal. He then knocked out Johnny Greco and whipped Sonny Home before bowing to Kid Gavilan.

Dauthuille did most of his fighting in Europe until 1949. He is rated only a knot behind his countryman Robert Villmain. He has met Villmain twice, dropping the decision both times.

Al Zarilla Hits Two Homers As Red Sox Win

Big Jaw Sain Believes He Can Regain Winning Ways For Braves

BRADENTON, Fla., March 24.—(INS)—Big Jaw Sain believes the right arm that helped pitch the Braves to their first pennant in 34 years will be okay this coming season.

The big quiet right hander who did his spring training at Hubbard, Fla., last year said: "My arm was tired when I reported last spring. I worked too hard. The arm was a little sore but not like the sore arms pitchers usually get."

"However, my arm feels good this year and I think I may have another winning year."

The big curve baller who was the bane of National league hitters in 1946, 1947 and 1948, winning 20, 21 and 24 games, is working out with the rest of the team this year. He takes his turn around the park, pitches batting practice and is making all the exhibition jaunts around the grapefruit circuit with the club.

Not Throwing As Hard

In his few appearances on the mound he has looked good. He is not throwing as hard as he usually does, but Sain was never one to rush to get into shape. He likes to do it gradually so that when the season opens he will be ready to go the full nine innings.

The quiet-spoken Pine Bluff, Ark., citizen seems to be really a satisfied athlete this year.

He refused to comment, but his attitude shows he really appreciates the fact that he wasn't asked to take a cut in pay after last season's record of 10 wins and 17 losses.

Manager Billy Southworth is enthused over the spirit and showing of Sain. He said: "I believe John is set for another good season. I don't know whether he will win 20 games for us this year, but from what he has shown so far in spring training, he seems to be all right."

CCNY Edges Ohio State

North Carolina Thumps Holy Cross

By JOHN BARRINGTON

(International News Service Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, March 24.—A hungry wolfpack from North Carolina prowled through the unfamiliar preserves of New York City today on a ruthless Beaver hunt.

The Beavers' quarry for once instead of predators in their own right—are the City College of New York basketball wizards, the "Cinderella team" that is gunning for a grand slam of National Invitation tournament and National Collegiate championships.

It is the wolfpack of North Carolina State College that CCNY must outwit tomorrow night in the eastern regional finals at Madison Square Garden.

North Carolina Wins

Last night, CCNY barely squeezed past Ohio State, 56 to 55, after the Bucks had taken the teeth out of the vicious Beaver attack. In fact, the Big Ten champions were well on their way to an upset victory until they lost their two kingpins, Dick Schnitker and Bob Donham, on fouls in the last five minutes.

Meanwhile, North Carolina State upended Holy Cross, 87 to 74.

McCullough, Jones Tri-State Choices

Four regular Westminster starters were named today to the Tri-State coaches all-star basketball teams.

Twenty-five coaches of the district participated in the balloting including Grover Washabaugh of Westminster.

Seniors Allen McCullough and Jackie Jones were listed on the first squad comprised of ten Tri-State standouts.

Sophomore Pat King made the second squad while Bruce Wagener, another senior, was given honorable mention.

Don Black, former New Castle High star now playing at Slippery Rock, was also named to the honorable mention squad.

McCullough, Duquesne's Chuck Cooper, and Al Vlasic of Geneva were almost unanimous choices. Andy Mestrovic, Bill Wanish, Hap Hukie, Steve Skendrovich, Bob Hardman, and Carl Payne rounded out the top ten.

Balloting was conducted by the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, a.s. M.--rnsCwon

Whiz Kids Play Exhibition Here In Duke Contest

Sharon Whiz Kids will play a half-time exhibition at Sunday's basketball game between the Iron Dukes and Morella's.

The important contest is scheduled to get underway at 4:30 at the Arena.

The Whiz Kids are a group of 7 to 12 year old boys who have been coached and drilled until they are able to present an excellent display of basketball skills. The boys play a short exhibition game between the halves. Earlier this year they put on their act at East Brook and were very well received by the fans there.

Whiz Kids Good In addition, the coach of the Whiz Kids also puts on a uni-cycle act.

The main attraction of course for Sunday is the appearance of the Dukes, headed by Charley Cooper, Steve Skendrovich, Jim Farrell, Ed Dahler, and Ellwood Joe Daugherty.

Morella's lineup is still a little dubious but a sincere effort is being made to secure as many Westminster starters as possible. These will be in addition to such stalwarts as Rags Gennock, Huck McGary and Bob Pitzer.

Floyd Morris Wins From Chuck Rosselli

PITTSBURGH, March 24.—(INS)—Floyd Morris today racked up his eleventh straight win after defeating Chuck Rosselli by a kayo at the Aragon Gardens in Pittsburgh last night.

Middleweight Morris stopped Rosselli in 2:56 of the third round of a scheduled eight-round bout.

Reynolds Stars In Yankee Win

Dodgers Defeat Phils, 8 To 4

(By International News Service)

The outstanding batting feat of the 1950 spring training season goes to Al Zarilla of the Boston Red Sox.

Al Smacked out two homers yesterday—both in the ninth inning and one with the bases loaded—as the Red Sox exploded for eight runs and defeated the Phils, 12 to 7, at Clearwater, Fla.

Allie Yanks Top Cards

Allie Reynolds of the World Champion Yankees did some fancy slugging to go with a six inning pitching stint. Old Wahoo blasted a three-run homer as the Yanks downed the Cardinals, 8 to 3, at St. Petersburg.

The National League Champion Dodgers defeated the Athletics, 8 to 4, at Vero Beach, Fla. Philadelphia shelled Don Newcombe from the hill in the third, but Dan Bankhead and Irv Palica turned in commendable relief jobs.

Blackwell In Trim

Ewell Blackwell pitched five scoreless innings and the Cincinnati Reds stopped the Detroit Tigers, 4 to 1 in Tampa.

Washington downed Chattanooga, 9 to 2, in Winter Gardens, Fla.

The Chicago Cub-San Francisco Seal game on the coast was postponed because of rain as was the Giant-Pirate set-to at Sacramento, Calif. In another coast night game San Diego beat Cleveland 2 to 1.

Games today: Cardinals vs. Braves at St. Petersburg; Cubs vs. Browns at Los Angeles; Reds vs. Red Sox at Sarasota; Pirates vs. Seals at San Francisco (night); Phillies vs. Senators at Orlando; Giants vs. Oakland at Oakland (night); White Sox at Sacramento (night); Indians at San Diego; Yankees vs. Tigers at Lakeland; Buffalo vs. Athletics at West Palm Beach.

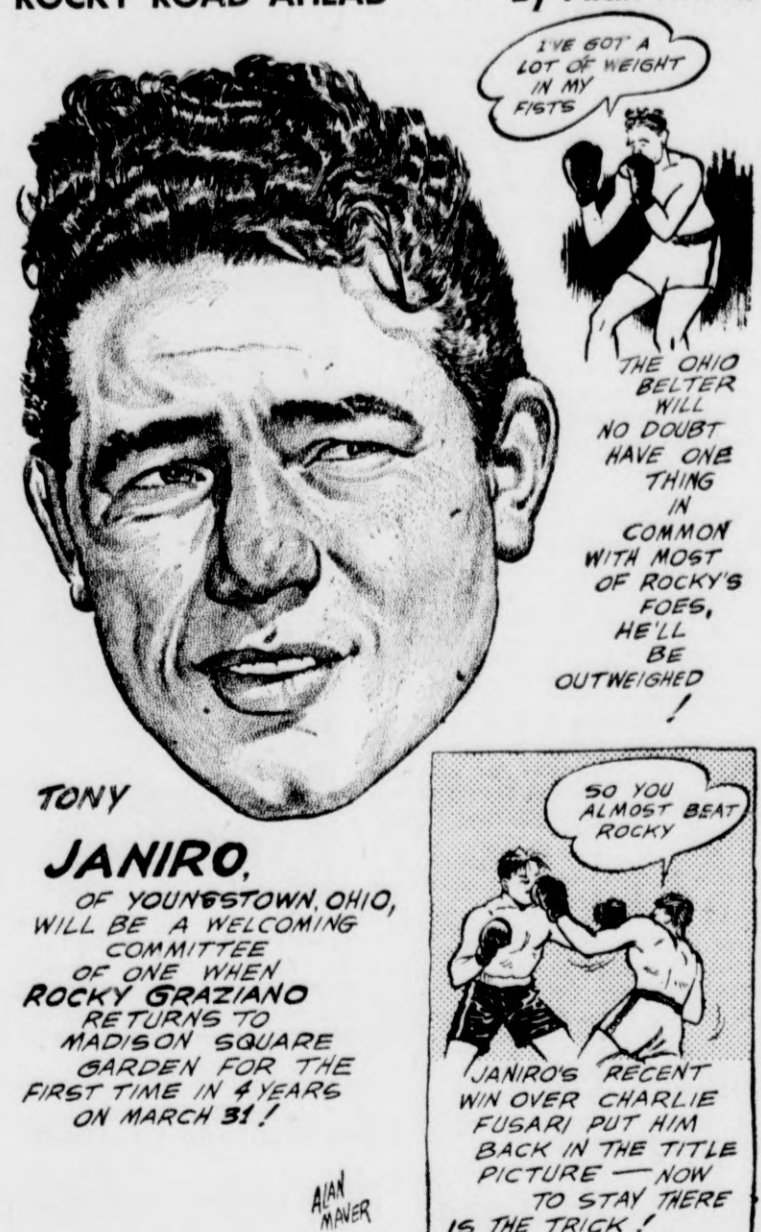

A.Z.A. Team Leaves For Asbury Park

New Castle Chapter of the A.Z.A. leaves tonight for Asbury Park, N. J., where it will participate in the Eastern Seaboard Elimination tournament to be held in the spacious Convention Hall this weekend.

The local team, coached by Eph Salomon, will meet teams from Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware. New Castle, which represents the West Virginia-Western Pennsylvania section, won the regional tournament in Beaver Falls and the Sectional tournament in Pittsburgh.

Local chapter of B'nai Brith is sponsoring the trip. Making the trip are Bill Alansky, David Alter, Donald Kulklin, Bill Berkman, Ernest Bobick, Joe Cohen, Charles Gillman, Gerald Greenberg, Philip Greenberg, Larry Haims, Stewart Krakover, Daniel Nixon and Bob Solomon.

Seals To Get Pirate Rookies

Bob Forbes Will Get Big Chance

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., March 24.—(INS)—When the Pittsburgh Pirates leave San Francisco Sunday after playing a three-game exhibition series with the Seals, a Coast league club, the squad won't be so bulky.

Several young players may be farmed out.

One or two new players may be added since president Frank McKinney and general manager Roy Haney are friendly with Lefty O'Doul, manager of the Coast league team.

The Pirates don't have a working agreement with the Seals but they have obtained Bob Chesnes, Bill Werle and others as a result of this friendship.

Forbes Moves Up
Outfielder Bob Forbes, who played with York of the Interstate league last year, may remain there. He seems to have the talent to jump from a class B to a triple-A team.

Monty Basgall, who was injured in his first practice game, also may return to a lower classification team this year. He had a low .218 batting average with the Pirates last season.

O'Doul probably will succeed in getting infielders from the Pirates, whose game with the Giants at Sacramento last night was rained out.

Bradley And UCLA In Western NCAA

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 24.—(INS)—Bradley university's run and shoot basketball team will see fire of its own kind tonight from UCLA in the western NCAA playoffs at Kansas City.

Brigham Young plays Baylor in tonight's other contest. The two winners take the court tomorrow for the right to perform in next Tuesday's NCAA championship game in New York.

The oddsmakers rate Brigham Young six points better than Baylor and Bradley five and one-half points over UCLA.

Press Box Mutterings

THE LITTLE PROFESSOR

William A. Mongiello, manager of the New Castle Nats during the 1949 season, has been named baseball coach at Gannon College in Erie.

Billy is currently sitting out a 90-day suspension from organized baseball for removing the New Castle team from the field at Johnstown in the waning days of last season to spite the umpires.

He is the third Gannon College baseball coach and has the job of trying to pick up a sport that was dropped by the school in 1949. Prior to that the Gannon team compiled an 0-6 record in 1947 and 2-7 in 1948.

Billy has been working in the Post Office in Erie during the past several months. His contract as Gannon coach began on March 10.

Among the games scheduled by the Gannon nine this spring is an exhibition game with the Erie Sailors of the Middle Atlantic League, a team that Billy was a member of in 1941 and part of 1942, and which he has played against many times in the past four years as player and manager of other Middle Atlantic League teams.

Speaking of baseball, did you ever hear of the outfielder who thought up a sure fire method of stopping the opponents from hitting home runs over his head?

He carried a spare ball in his pocket and when a ball looked like it was going over the wall he would take his spare and bounce it off the wall at the right moment and relay it in holding the hitter to a double or a single.

The first time he tried it, it worked and the runner stopped at second. Spectators sitting a little closer to the outfielder saw what happened and squealed, however, ruining the young genius' scheme.

Bonus players in the big leagues and the restrictions placed upon them are causing a bigger stink this year than ever before. The $75,000 paid to Johnny Antonelli of the Braves for signing and his poor showing last year when he had to stay with the Boston club or be subject to waivers was one of the main causes for the dissension on the Braves. Another first class pitcher instead of Antonelli may have given the Braves a higher finish in the National League.

This year Brooklyn must keep a rookie first baseman named Wayne Belardi. He has had only one year in organized ball but must stay with the parent organization. Gil Hodges has the regular assignment as guardian of the initial sack. Since a club can keep no more than two firstbasemen and be practical, Chuck Connors must look forward to another year at Montreal. Connors hit .319 for the Royals last year, drove in 108 runs and belted 20 homers. Belardi hit only .242 at St. Paul. Beside Connors has earned his way into the big show by hitting well each season as he worked himself up through the chain. Belardi has only one year in organized ball.

Detroit has a similar problem. Bonus Catcher Henry House was a .261 flop in the Class A Central League but must stay on the Tiger catching staff. Myron Ginsberg on the other hand has hit and caught well for several Tiger clubs on his way up. Last season Ginsberg batted .283 at Toledo. His reward for hitting .022 points better in a league two classes higher than House is another year at Toledo because the Tigers don't want four catchers. They already have Swift and Robinson in addition to House.

Scarry Quits Red Cats' Job

To Join Gallagher At Santa Clara

CLEVELAND, March 24.—(INS)

—Mike Scarry, head football coach at Western Reserve University, resigned Thursday to accept a post as assistant to Dick Gallagher at the University of Santa Clara.

Ed Uliniski, a blocking guard with the Cleveland Browns, will also leave for the coast to become a line coach under Gallagher.

A former Brown center, Scarry has been the Red Cats' mentor for the past two seasons. He broke into pro football with the Cleveland Rams in 1944 and 1945, holding the same spot for the next two years with the Browns.

Served Under Brown
Uliniski came from Marshall college to the Browns in 1946 and remained with Cleveland for four championship years.

Gallagher, in announcing the appointments, said Scarry's appointment won't become official until March 31.

Gallagher served under Paul Brown as end coach for the past three years. He was signed to the head coaching post at Santa Clara last Sunday.

Urges Governor Reprimand State Boxing Commission For Robinson-Costner Bout

PHILADELPHIA, March 24.—(INS)—Gov. James H. Duff was urged today to reprimand the state athletic commission for permitting Wednesday's "unaven match" in Philadelphia between welterweight champion Ray Robinson and George Costner.

In an "I told you so" letter to the chief executive, former State Senator H. Jerome Jaspas reminded Duff that he warned the commission last week against staging the bout.

"Sugar" Ray literally "granulated" Costner, a Camden, N. J., puncher, in 2:49 of the first round of their scheduled bout before some 13,000 fans at Convention Hall.

Jaspas wrote Duff: "The boxing commission should be taken to task for permitting the fiasco between Robinson and Costner. The unequal match cost the fans $55,000.

"Obviously the interest of the management and the promoters rise higher than the fighting fans who pay good money to see boxing bouts.

"You can hardly expect any improvement in the situation unless some drastic move is made by you in the interests of fair play and good sportsmanship."

Paid No Heed

Jaspas said Commissioner John (Ox) Dagrosa "paid little or no heed" to his earlier demand that the fight be cancelled. Jaspas contended at that time that Robinson could "call the round" he would knock out Costner.

"In my opinion," Jaspas said, "the boxing commissioners should be given to understand that they are public servants and that boxing should be conducted fairly and squarely for the benefit of all. Otherwise, it is doomed to failure."

Page signed his New York Yankee contract for a reported $30,000—or more than twice as much as some of the greatest starting hurriers ever received.
